Harlan Lebo, 2019-06-28 Some events that transform a nation are frozen in time. Others pass with little public awareness and we only appreciate their momentous nature long after they occur. Regardless, these events are few and almost always far between. But in 1969, four such events took place within the span of only 100 days. In this book, cultural historian Harlan Lebo looks back at the first moon landing, the Manson family murders, Woodstock, and the birth of the Internet to tell the story of how each event shaped the nation and how we perceive ourselves. Loaded with captivating anecdotes and insights based on extensive interviews with eyewitnesses and participants to provide historical insight and contemporary context, 100 Days will fascinate readers who seek a deeper appreciation of how four seemingly unrelated events shaped America's emergence as the nation we have become. London Society, 1879 Club Papers Chicago Literary Club, 1924 Field and Stream, 1925 Online and Offline Modulators of Motor Learning Shahabeddin Vahdat, Ovidiu Lungu, Bradley King, Geneviève Albouy, Julien Doyon, 2017-05-25 Both the acquisition of new and the modification of previously acquired motor skills are necessary to achieve optimal levels of motor performance in everyday functioning as well as to attain expert performance levels that are evident in sports and arts. A multitude of factors have been shown to influence the various stages of the learning process, from the acquisition (i.e., motor memory encoding) to the consolidation and subsequent retention of a skill. These factors or modulators can affect learning through online processes taking place during practice of a new motor skill or through offline processes occurring in the absence of task performance (i.e., after training sessions). Although much of the recent research from various disciplines has placed an increased emphasis on identifying factors that can influence the motor learning process, we lack an integrated understanding of online and offline determinants of motor skill behaviours. Potential motor learning modulators include but are certainly not limited to stress, anxiety, attention, executive functioning, social interaction, stimulus response mapping, training schedule, regimen, learning environment, vigilance, consciousness states including sleep, wakefulness, or meditation, brain stimulation, interference, as well as resting state brain connectivity. Pathological and non-pathological (i.e., development or aging changes in the brain) can also be conceptualized as potential modulators. The aim of this Research Topic is to bridge research from the cognitive, sensory, motor, and psychological domains using various behavioural paradigms and neuroimaging techniques in order to provide a comprehensive view of the online and offline modulators of motor learning and how they interact to influence motor performance. Critically, the overarching goal is to gain a better understanding of how motor behaviour can be optimized. We believe that merging research from diverse neuroscientific communities would contribute to fulfilling this goal and potentially highlight possible shared neurophysiological mechanisms influencing motor learning. Field & Stream, 1978-08 FIELD STREAM America's largest

Can Journalism Be Saved? Rachel Davis Mersey, 2010-08-06 This book challenges the once dominant social responsibility model and argues that a new individual first paradigm is what will allow journalism to survive in today's crowded media marketplace By some measures it would seem that print journalism is dying Journalism recently suffered one of its worst circulation declines in years a drop of more than ten percent in the a six month period ending September 30 2009 The Rocky Mountain News in Denver CO closed its doors in 2009 after it dominated the AP awards in 2008 and was lauded for an investigative expose on unfair treatment of former nuclear workers Even the New York Times and the Washington Post are experiencing financial trouble But print advertising revenue still trumps online advertising revenue ten fold Is there hope yet for traditional journalism This book reviews the complicated challenge facing journalism tracing its 19th century community oriented origins and documenting the vast expansion of the news business via blogs and other Internet enabled outlets user generated content and news like alternatives The author argues that a radical shift in mindset striving to meet each individual's demands for what he wants to know will be necessary to save journalism
