A Maggot John Fowles, 2013-04-02 The renowned author delivers a hypnotic tale of obsession truth and lies in this immensely rich and readable novel a remarkable achievement Time In the spring of 1736 four men and one woman all traveling under assumed names are crossing the Devonshire countryside en route to a mysterious rendezvous Before their journey ends one of them will be hanged one will vanish and the others will face a murder trial Out of the truths and lies that envelop these events John Fowles has created a novel that is at once a tale of erotic obsession an exploration of the conflict between reason and superstition an astonishing act of literary legerdemain and the story of the birth of a new faith John Fowles, A Maggot New American Library, 1985 Critical Analysis of Fiction Jean Jacques Weber, 1992 No detailed description available for Critical Analysis of Fiction John Fowles's Fiction and the Poetics of Postmodernism Mahmoud Salami, 1992 Salami presents for instance a critique of the self conscious narrative of the diary form in The Collector the intertextual relations of the multiplicity of voices the problems of subjectivity the reader's position the politics of seduction ideology and history in The Magus and The French Lieutenant's Woman The book also analyzes the ways in which Fowles uses and abuses the short story genre in which enigmas remain enigmatic and the author disappears to leave the characters free to construct their own texts Salami centers for example on A Maggot which embodies the postmodernist technique of dialogical narrative the problem of narrativization of history and the explicitly political critique of both past and present in terms of social and religious dissent These political questions are also echoed in Fowles's nonfictional book The Aristos in which he strongly rejects the totalization of narratives and the materialization of society Image and Ideology in Modern/Postmodern Discourse David B. Downing, Susan Bazargan, 1991-01-01 This book addresses the function and status of the visual and verbal image as it relates to social political and ideological issues The authors first articulate some of the lost connections between image and ideology then locate their argument within the modernist postmodernist debates The book addresses the multiple trans disciplinary problems arising from the ways cultures authors and texts mobilize particular images in order to confront conceal work through or resolve contradictory ideological conditions Women and Men in John Fowles's Fiction Joanne Carol Carlson, 1987 Guide to British Prose Fiction Explication Lynn Beene, 1997 The Fictions of John Fowles Pamela Cooper, 1991-01-01 The complex power relationships in John Fowles's fictions particularly his handling of the pivotal subjects of art and sex are the focus of this incisive and skillfully articulated study The Fictions of John Fowles includes chapters on The Collector The Magus The French Lieutenant's Woman and The Ebony Tower It also includes a final chapter on Daniel Martin Mantissa and A Maggot Published in English The Art of Fiction and of Fiction-Writing in "A Maggot" a Novel by John Fowles Florence Pryn, 1994 Wormholes John Fowles, 1998 Wormholes presents for the first time a representative gathering of Fowles's fugitive and intensely personal nonfiction writings essays literary criticism commentaries autobiographical statements memoirs and musings English Novel Explication Peter L. Reconstructing the Past Paul Weibel,1989 During the last twenty years many English and American novelists have tried their hands at novels that deal with the past This book examines two contemporary novels which both reconstruct recent history It tries to explain the writers interest in the process of history making and it raises the question whether it still makes sense to speak of historical novels Finally in a more general part the author looks at the theoretical background and discusses the relationship between history and fiction both in historiography and in the contemporary novel
