the NBA The location and relocation of franchises are matters of central importance for teams league and municipalities The league s ability to artificially limit the number of franchises below the market clearing number provides teams with major leverage over communities anxious to keep or acquire a professional franchise The manner in which a municipality might constrain exercise of this market power is a matter of enduring social importance One chapter will analyze leasing arrangements as one response Another chapter will explore the dynamics of team municipality negotiations Both will use the move of the Seattle Supersonics to Oklahoma City as a starting point Among the four major sports in the United States basketball alone supports a professional women s league A chapter will examine the history organizational structure and distinctive problems of the WNBA This chapter may provide a vehicle for exploration of societally related gender and discrimination issues as well Contributors Ira Finkelstein a graduate of Harvard Law School has had very extensive experience in sports litigation Some of that litigation experience has involved disputes with the NBA He is a member of the Committee on Sports Law of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York Russ VerSteeg graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and magna cum laude from the University of Connecticut School of Law He has taught at New England Law School since 1991 and specializes in Sports Law Copyright Trademarks and Legal History He has published four books and over twenty five law review articles His most recent book is Sports Law Cases and Materials Jacquelyn Bridgeman is on the faculty of the University of Wyoming s College of Law She received her undergraduate degree from Stanford University and her law degree from the University of Chicago Her scholarship has been concentrated in the areas of discrimination and race issues
