Earning an income in our time often involves ownership of or control over creative assets. Employing the law and philosophy of economics, this illuminating book explores the legal controversies that emerge when authors, singers, filmmakers, and social media barons leverage their rights into major paydays. It explores how players in the entertainment and technology sectors articulate claims to an ever-increasing amount of copyright-protected media. It then analyzes efforts to reform copyright law in the contexts of 1) increasing the rights of creators and sellers and 2) allocating these rights after employment and labor disputes, constitutional challenges to intellectual property law, efforts to legalize online mashups and remixes, and changes to the amount of streaming royalties paid to actors and musicians. This work should be read by anyone interested in how copyright law and its potential reform shapes the ownership of ideas in the social media age.

Music Processing Goffredo Haus, 1993. This is a collection of essays on the state of the art in computer applications in music throughout Europe and North America. Written by leaders in the field, the book includes discussion of music processing, music analysis, synthesis, models, and formal tools for music knowledge representation and for programming and controlling music computing systems. The final chapters examine the work of some of the most advanced computer music centres in the world. The book will be of interest to students and professionals working within the field of music processing and will enrich their understanding of this crucially important subject. Goffredo Haus is Senior Researcher, Dipartimento di Scienze dell'Informazione and scientific director of the LIM at the University of Milan. He has lectured on computer music and electronic music at the University of Milan and composes music by computer methods.
