The Oxford Handbook of Higher Education in the Asia-Pacific Region Devesh Kapur, Lily Kong, Florence Lo, David M. Malone, 2023-01-20 Since the turn of the millennium it has become clear that the Asia Pacific Region is economically the fastest growing continent in the world and is likely to remain so for some time despite the setbacks of the COVID 19 pandemic Asia Pacific s share of the world s Gross Domestic Product GDP doubled from 15 per cent to 30 per cent between 1970 and 2017 and is projected to account for half of global GDP by 2050 With South East and South Asia also growing rapidly with over half the world s population and three of the world s five largest economies Asia is soon poised to home half of the world s middle class a class that is both the driver and the product of higher education The quality of a country s system of higher education may be seen both as a gauge of its current level of national development as well as of its future economic prospects It is therefore natural that the putative Asian Century should generate interest in the region s higher education systems which on the one hand share common characteristics a fixation with credentials and engineering high technology especially among male students and business degrees while at the same time are also highly differentiated not only across countries but also within As such a better understanding of higher education achievements failings potential and structural limitations in the Asia Pacific Region is imperative This handbook presents a number of significant country case studies and documents cross cutting trends relating to among other things the trilemma faced by governments juggling competing claims of access accessible cost and quality the balance between teaching and research the links between labour markets demand and higher education supply preferred fields of study and their consequences the rise of the research university in Asia the lure of institutions of international reputation within the region new education technologies and their effects and trends in government policy within the wider region and sub regions Multimodal Chinese Discourse Dezheng (William) Feng, 2023-04-12 This book helps readers to understand communication and society in contemporary China through systematic analysis of multimodal discourse at the national institutional and individual levels China has undergone profound changes during the past decade or so Politically the Chinese government has been more proactive in domestic governance and foreign policies as manifested in the Chinese Dream campaign and the national image publicity films respectively Hand in hand with the socio political change is the rapid development of new media which has been changing how corporates do business how institutions brand their images as well as how individuals construct their identities and social relations These developments have brought about significant changes to the discursive practices at the national institutional and individual level characterized by the extensive use of multimodal resources and distinct promotional purposes Feng systematically investigates and discusses the new discursive features in relation to relevant socio cultural contexts The analysis and discussion provide researchers with a social semiotic perspective on various aspects of communicative and social changes in contemporary China The book also contributes to the growing field of multimodality by developing a set of cross disciplinary analytical frameworks to deal with complex discourse forms in print media moving images and new media The research findings provide a unique Chinese perspective on a broad spectrum of issues such as discursive governance nation branding university marketization and identity performance The book is relevant not only to discourse analysis and multimodality but also to other disciplines which will benefit from a systematic understanding of Chinese discourse such as cultural studies communication studies and area China studies

Westlessness Samir Puri, 2024-07-25 What if the sun truly is setting on the Western world's outsized influence over the rest of the planet In Westlessness former UK diplomat Dr Samir Puri vividly demonstrates how in demographic economic military and cultural terms we are hurtling into a far more diverse global future Many of our certainties about the present built on centuries of massive Western global impact are increasingly fragile Untold wealth is moving from the West to the East as nations like India and Indonesia are set to reach new heights of growth and confidence And China continues its ascent to the peak of the economic mountain but are cracks appearing And will the Western world under the aegis of US global military economic technological and cultural power give up its privileged position willingly Nothing is linear and nothing is predictable Are we prepared personally and professionally for a far more diverse global future Prepared or unprepared Westlessness is essential reading for us all

Horse Girls Halimah Marcus, 2021-08-03 A wild rollicking ride into the heart of horse country these essays get at what it means to love horses in all that love s complexity Anton DiSclafani author of The Yonahlossee Riding Camp for Girls A compelling and provocative essay collection that smashes stereotypes and redefines the meaning of the term horse girl broadening it for women of all cultural backgrounds As a child horses consumed Halimah

Marcus imagination When she wasn't around horses she was pretending to be one cantering on two legs hands poised to hold invisible reins To her classmates girls like Halimah were known as horse girls weird and overzealous absent from the social worlds of their peers Decades later when memes about horse girl energy began appearing across social media Halimah reluctantly recognized herself The jokes imagine girls as blinkered as carriage ponies oblivious to the mockery behind their backs The stereotypical horse girl is also white thin rich and straight a daughter of privilege Yet so many riders don't fit this narrow damaging ideal and relate to horses in profound ways that include ambivalence and regret as well as unbridled passion and devotion Featuring some of the most striking voices in contemporary literature including Carmen Maria Machado Pulitzer prize winner Jane Smiley T Kira Madden Maggie Shipstead and Courtney Maum Horse Girls reframes the iconic bond between girls and horses with the complexity and nuance it deserves And it showcases powerful emerging voices like Braudie Blais Billie on the connection between her Seminole and Quebécois heritage Sarah Enelow Snyder on growing up as a Black barrel racer in central Texas and Nur Nasreen Ibrahim on the colonialist influence on horse culture in Pakistan By turns thought provoking and personal Horse Girls reclaims its titular stereotype to ask bold questions about autonomy and desire privilege and ambition identity and freedom and the competing forces of domestication and wildness

College Rankings Exposed Paul Boyer, 2004 Argues that information about college ranking systems should be made available to students and parents Student Use of Rankings in National Magazines in the College Decision-making Process Michele Howard McManus, 2002 College rankings are widely depicted as vital tools for making informed decisions about the college selection process Based on sales volume and the diversity of ratings currently in existence there is little doubt that rankings are big business and are undeniably here to stay On the other hand very little factual information is available about students actual use of rankings in the college decision making process It is clear that rankings such as those published by US News World Report are now part of the landscape in our system of higher education However the problem is to establish the extent students use rankings and to determine user characteristics based on demographics and institutional type The paramount purpose of this research study is to determine the importance of college rankings in national magazines on students institutional choice Analysis of data provided by the Cooperative Institutional Research Program CIRP provides a greater understanding of the impact of rankings on students college decision making process Specific research questions for this study include 1 Do students perceive college rankings to be an important factor in selecting their institution of choice 2 Does the importance attached to rankings vary significantly when response patterns are examined between students attending ranked national universities and those schools that are not ranked 3 Does the importance attached to rankings vary significantly when response patterns are examined between students attending ranked national liberal arts colleges and those colleges that are not ranked 4 Does the importance attached to rankings vary significantly when response patterns are examined between students attending public or private national universities 5 Does the importance attached to college rankings in national magazines vary significantly when response patterns are examined by gender age place of residence distance from permanent home academic achievement financial status or ethnicity Utilizing two US News ranking categories a total of 40 institutions from 13 states in differing geographic regions were selected for this research Public and private institutions and ranked and unranked schools were included in this analysis In addition each of these colleges participated in the CIRP for fall 2000 For this study there are 14 541 first time full time freshmen represented in the sample Of these students 8827 attend national universities while 5714 are enrolled in liberal arts colleges The majority of students included in this study placed some level of importance on college rankings Ratings in newsmagazines are of particular importance to first time full time freshmen attending ranked private institutions In addition students who deem rankings as important are traditionally aged live on campus attend a school a significant distance from home and have a high level of financial status

Academic Quality Rankings of American Colleges and Universities David S. Webster,1986 College Rankings Luke Myers,Jonathan Robe,2009 Today college quality rankings in news magazines and guidebooks are a big business with tangible impacts on the operation of higher education institutions The college rankings published annually by U S News and World Report U S News are so influential that Don Hossler of Indiana University derisively claims that higher education is the victim of management by the magazine How did academic quality rankings of colleges and universities become so powerful in higher education A review of their historical development in the first section of this study may surprise many readers While college professors and administrators alike largely decry rankings today their origin lies in academia itself Begun as esoteric studies by lone professors college rankings development into the most popularly accepted assessment of academic quality was fueled by the very institutions of higher education they now judge While the purpose and design of academic quality rankings has evolved during the century since their creation their history teaches one clear lesson college rankings fill a strong consumer demand for information about institutional quality and as such are here to stay for the foreseeable future Various approaches to college rankings have different benefits and each is subject to legitimate criticism all of which should be seriously considered in light of the powerful effects that a widely distributed ranking can have on institutions of higher education and the students seeking to enter them Sections II and III will explore these aspects of college rankings respectively In light of the historical lessons revealed in Section I however movements that seek to reform college rankings should be focused on producing better rankings rather than on trying to eliminate or ignore them Section IV will survey multiple new indicators of academic quality that many view as potential improvements over the indicators upon which current college rankings are based Contains 2 figures 6 tables and 116 endnotes College Rankings Exposed Paul Boyer,2003 Argues that information about college ranking systems should be made available to students and parents college rankings to assess the quality of colleges and universities and easily compare different schools. However, many institutions have responded to the rankings in ways that benefit neither the schools nor their students. In Engines of Anxiety, sociologists Wendy Espeland and Michael Sauder delve deep into the mechanisms of law school rankings, which have become a top priority within legal education. Based on a wealth of observational data and over 200 in-depth interviews with law students, university deans, and other administrators, they show how the scramble for high rankings has affected the missions and practices of many law schools. Engines of Anxiety tracks how rankings such as those published annually by the U.S. News World Report permeate every aspect of legal education, beginning with the admissions process. The authors find that prospective law students not only rely heavily on such rankings to evaluate school quality but also internalize rankings as expressions of their own abilities and flaws. For example, they often view rejections from first-tier schools as a sign of personal failure. The rankings also affect the decisions of admissions officers who try to balance admitting diverse classes with preserving the school's ranking, which is dependent on factors such as the median LSAT score of the entering class. Espeland and Sauder find that law schools face pressure to admit applicants with high test scores over lower-scoring candidates who possess other favorable credentials. Engines of Anxiety also reveals how rankings have influenced law schools' career service departments. Because graduates' job placements play a major role in the rankings, many institutions have shifted their career services resources toward tracking placements and away from counseling and network building. In turn, law firms regularly use school rankings to recruit and screen job candidates, perpetuating a cycle in which highly ranked schools enjoy increasing prestige. As a result, the rankings create and reinforce a rigid hierarchy that penalizes lower-tier schools that do not conform to the restrictive standards used in the rankings. The authors show that as law schools compete to improve their rankings, their programs become more homogenized and less accessible to non-traditional students. The ranking system is considered a valuable resource for learning about more than 200 law schools. Yet Engines of Anxiety shows that the drive to increase a school's rankings has negative consequences for students, educators, and administrators, and has implications for all educational programs that are quantified in similar ways.

University Rankings Ulrich Teichler,Jung Cheol Shin,Robert K. Toutkoushian,2011 Engines of Anxiety Wendy Nelson Espeland,Michael Sauder,Wendy Espeland,2016-05-09 Students and the public routinely consult various published
