Patterns Of Culture Ruth Benedict:

Patterns of Culture Ruth Benedict, 2005 Offers an analysis of three strongly contrasting primitive civilizations showing how behavior is influenced by custom and tradition Patterns of Culture Ruth Benedict, 1959 A study of the civilizations of the Zuni Indians the natives of Dobu and the Kwakiutl Indians Patterns of Culture Ruth Benedict, 1934 Patterns of Culture Ruth Benedict, 1934 Culture, 1922 Marc Manganaro, 2009-01-10 Culture 1922 traces the intellectual and institutional deployment of the culture concept in England and America in the first half of the twentieth century With primary attention to how models of culture are created elaborated upon transformed resisted and ignored Marc Manganaro works across disciplinary lines to embrace literary literary critical and anthropological writing Tracing two traditions of thinking about culture as elite products and pursuits and as common and shared systems of values Manganaro argues that these modernist formulations are not mutually exclusive and have indeed intermingled in complex and interesting ways throughout the development of literary studies and anthropology Beginning with the important Victorian architects of culture Matthew Arnold and Edward Tylor the book follows a number of main figures schools and movements up to 1950 such as anthropologist Franz Boas his disciples Edward Sapir Ruth Benedict and Zora Neale Hurston literary modernists T S Eliot and James Joyce functional anthropologist Bronislaw Malinowski modernist literary critic I A Richards the New Critics and Kenneth Burke The main focus here however is upon three works published in 1922 the watershed year of Modernism Eliot's The Waste Land Malinowski's Argonauts of the Western Pacific and Joyce's Ulysses Manganaro reads these masterworks and the history of their reception as efforts toward defining culture This is a wide ranging and ambitious study about an ambiguous and complex concept as it moves within and between disciplines Patterns of culture Ruth Benedict, 1950 Patterns of Culture Ruth Benedict, 1968 Patterns of Culture Ruth Benedict, 1934 A study of the civilizations of the Zuni Indians the natives of Dobu and the Kwakiutl Indians Color in the Classroom Zoe Burkholder, 2011-10-05 Between the turn of the twentieth century and the Brown v Board of Education decision in 1954 the way that American schools taught about race changed dramatically This transformation was engineered by the nation's most prominent anthropologists including Franz Boas Ruth Benedict and Margaret Mead during World War II Inspired by scientific racism in Nazi Germany these activist scholars decided that the best way to fight racial prejudice was to teach what they saw as the truth about race in the institution that had the power to do the most good American schools Anthropologists created lesson plans lectures courses and pamphlets designed to revise what they called the race concept in American education They believed that if teachers presented race in scientific and egalitarian terms conveying human diversity as learned habits of culture rather than innate characteristics American citizens would become less racist Although nearly forgotten today this educational reform movement represents an important component of early civil rights activism that emerged alongside the domestic and global tensions of wartime Drawing on hundreds of first hand accounts written by teachers nationwide Zoe Burkholder traces the influence of this anthropological activism on the way that teachers understood spoke and taught about race She explains how and why teachers readily understood certain theoretical concepts such as the division of race into three main categories while they struggled to make sense of more complex models of cultural diversity and structural inequality As they translated theories into practice teachers crafted an educational discourse on race that differed significantly from the definition of race produced by scientists at mid century Schoolteachers and their approach to race were put into the spotlight with the Brown v Board of Education case but the belief that racially integrated schools would eradicate racism in the next generation and eliminate the need for discussion of racial inequality long predated this Discussions of race in the classroom were silenced during the early Cold War until a new generation of antiracist multicultural educators emerged in the 1970s
