

The background of the cover is a thermal map of a printed circuit board (PCB). The map uses a color scale from blue (low temperature) to red (high temperature) to show heat distribution. A large, bright yellow and red area is visible in the upper center, indicating a high-temperature region. The rest of the board shows various patterns of heat, with blue and green areas indicating cooler regions. The text is overlaid on a black horizontal band across the middle of the image.
