The UN and Transnational Corporations Tagi Sagafi-nejad, John H. Dunning, 2008-10-16 Are transnational corporations TNCs and foreign direct investment beneficial or harmful to societies around the world Since the birth of the United Nations more than 60 years ago these questions have been major issues of interest and involvement for UN institutions What have been the key ideas generated by the UN about TNCs and their relations with nation states How have these ideas evolved and what has been their impact This book examines the history of UN engagement with TNCs including the creation of the UN Commission and Centre on Transnational Corporations in 1974 the failed efforts of these bodies to craft a code of conduct to temper the revealed abuses of TNCs and with the advent of globalization in the 1980s the evolution of a more cooperative relationship between TNCs and developing countries resulting in the 1999 Global Compact

Human Development Report 2007/2008

United Nations Development Programme, 2007-11-15 Human development is about putting people at the center of development. It is about people realizing their potential, increasing choice, and enjoying the freedom to lead the lives they value. Created in 1990, the Human Development Report has explored themes including gender equity, democracy, human rights, globalization, cultural liberty, and water scarcity. The past years have witnessed the emergence of a growing consensus on climate change. Governments across the world have seen the warning signs. The science linking global warming to human activity is unequivocal. The economic case for action is compelling: the costs of inaction will heavily outweigh the costs of action. Yet the politics lags behind the science and the economics. Collectively, the world's governments are failing to act with the urgency demanded by the scale of the threat. The window of opportunity for avoiding dangerous climate change is closing fast. This year's Human Development Report explains why we have less than a decade to change course and start living within our global carbon budget. It explains how climate change will create long-run, low human development traps, pushing vulnerable people into a downward spiral of deprivation. Because climate change is a global problem with global causes and effects, it demands a global response, with countries acting on the basis of their historic responsibility and capabilities.

Leading issues in development economics. Leading issues in economic development. Studies in international poverty. Second edition Gerald M. Meier, 1970 Economic Development Michael P. Todaro, 1994 Leading Issues in Development Economics Gerald M. Meier, 1967 Development Economics HL Ahuja, A result of more than four decades of teaching experience, this book deals with the problems of economic growth, development, and eradication of poverty and unemployment. The book also includes an analytical study of important issues of environment and sustainable development. The book not only explains the models and theories of economic growth but also critically evaluates their relevance to developing countries. A major highlight of discussion in the context is the exploration of the widely accepted Amartya Sen's Capability Approach to development. Development Economics : From the Poverty to the Wealth of Nations Yujiro Hayami, 2001-02-15 A comprehensive and systematic account of the core topics in development economics, this book examines the reasons why a few countries have achieved a high level of affluence while the majority remain poor and stagnant. It represents an original combination of classical political economy, modern institutional theory, and current development issues bound together through the East Asian development experience. This fully revised second edition also analyses some recent changes and newly emerged problems relevant to the global economy. This textbook provides a comprehensive, systematic treatise on development economics, combining classical political economy, modern institutional theory, and current development issues. It has grown out of thirty years of experience of teaching undergraduate and postgraduate students in the United States, Japan, and other parts of Asia. The treatment is global, although the organizing principle is the East Asian development experience. Quantitative characteristics of Third World development in terms of population growth, natural resource depletion, capital accumulation, and technological change are outlined, but the central approach is comparative institutional analysis Development Economics addresses one major question Why has a small set of countries achieved a high level of affluence while the majority remain poor and stagnant Why in turn has the number of developing economies set on the track of closing their productivity gap with advanced economies been so limited One obvious factor underlying this global divergence is unevenness in the ability to adopt and develop advanced technology due in large measure to the difficulty experienced by low income economies in preparing appropriate institutions for borrowing advanced technology given their social and cultural constraints The major task of this volume is to explore the nature of these binding constraints with the aim of identifying the means to remove them Comparisons are made with countries where the constraints have been successfully lifted most notably Japan and East Asian NIEs This fully revised and updated second edition also incorporates analyses of several recent changes and newly emerged problems relevant to the global economy the 1997-98 financial crisis in East Asia the Kyoto Protocol signed in 1997 at the Third Conference of Parties for the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change and the deceleration in growth of agricultural productivity in Asia Exploration of these issues provides important lessons on how to sustain economic growth based on technology borrowing

Economic Development, Growth and Welfare Charles Smith, 1994 Covers the major issues of economic development including Third World debt income distribution and environmental problems Leading Issues in Development Economics Gerald M. Meier, 1974 The Process of Economic Development James M. Cypher, 2020-12-30 The fifth edition of The Process of Economic Development offers a thorough and up to date treatment of development economics It has been extensively revised throughout reflecting the most recent developments in research and incorporating the latest empirical data as well as key theoretical advances and many new topics The world has seen vast economic growth in China economic transformation in India new challenges in Latin America rapid economic progress in Southeast Asia and the deepening impact of environmental issues such as climate change This new edition addresses all these critical issues as well as the pivotal role of the state where China's capacity is contrasted with that of African states Transnational corporations reliance on low wage manufacturing and labor arbitrage is featured in the book Agricultural policy extensively explored remains crucial as does the promotion of industrialization This fifth edition offers a state of the art analysis of these essential themes and many others Numerous case studies and issue focuses have been integrated with sundry central topics Neoclassical theories and applications including a timely exploration of behavioral economics are both rigorously and accessibly explicated Cypher's comprehensive account remains the development economics text par excellence as it takes a much more practical hands on view of the issues facing the developing countries than other overly mathematical texts This book is unique in its scope and in the detailed attention it gives to a vast range of ideas including pioneering developmentalist and heterodox formulations Distinct institutional structures are examined within their historical contexts This landmark text will continue to be an invaluable resource for students teachers and researchers in the fields of development economics and development studies
