What are Taxes?

What are Taxes?

Sparks, schools, libraries, and parks are all paid for by taxes. What are taxes, and what happens on Tax Day?

A tax is money the government takes from people to pay for things.

Taxes pay for police officers, firefighters, public transportation, and the military. Some tax money pays for health care for people who need it. Everyone gives some money so that we can enjoy these services. Taxes also pay for government workers and buildings.

There are different types of taxes. Income tax is a portion of the money someone earns from their job that they pay to the government. Sales tax is a small amount of money added to the price of something when you buy it.

Tax Day is the day that people go to send the government their tax forms. It is usually on April 15th. The forms tell the government if a person owes tax money or if the government needs to send them some money back.
