Legal Case Brief Workbook John Crane,2010-02 Located at the heart of every legal education is the critical evaluation of legal cases Case analysis is deemed by many leading legal minds to be one of the best tools for acquisition and application of course material to real world conditions One of the problems from the student s perspective is the amount of time it takes to read digest and write out formal case briefs Faced with this problem and a generally time crunched daily routine student s often turn to commercially prepared case briefs and or outlines This action does not allow for internalization of the material necessary to gain a high level of comprehension This book template provide an organizational strategy for your cases throughout your classes and law school career CASE CASE Technology, Inc,1988 Case File State v. Sanchez Elizabeth I. Boals,2024-10-17 Was Ernesto Sanchez in the wrong place at the wrong time or is he a member of a violent criminal gang Sanchez admits that he was caught up in a parking lot gang fight in his rough neighborhood and stabbed Patrick Connor who died of the wound Sanchez says he stabbed Connor in self defense after Connor hit him with a baseball bat The witnesses agree that Sanchez was on the ground and Connor was standing over him What happened next is in dispute as is whether Sanchez is a gang member or just a local resident who was in the wrong place at the wrong time This unique file focuses on gang activity and non traditional experts whose qualifications are experience rather than education New to the Third Edition Updated skull sketches to reflect Ernesto s assertion that they are for Dia de los Muertes Cultural information about the Day of the Dead in relation to skull drawings Professors and students will benefit from An opportunity to examine implicit and explicit biases and learn how to address them in a courtroom situation A variety of witnesses let participants weigh the advantages and disadvantages of calling each witness Multiple forms of exhibits allow participants a chance to practice laying foundations State v. Gray A. J. Bellido de Luna,Joseph E. Taylor,2016-10-07 What is the appropriate response for officers to take when they believe they are in imminent mortal danger on the job. At what point does the use of force in an encounter diverge from being appropriate and justifiable and cross into excessive and criminal? What does the law say about police shooting an unarmed citizen? These are the questions posed by State v Gray, a new NITA case file inspired by the timely discussions our nation is having about the use of force against unarmed civilians. The tragic events in Ferguson in 2014, Baltimore and Chicago in 2015, and Baton Rouge and Dallas in 2016, among far too many others throughout our nation in recent years, have energized the country in a debate about these very police tactics in America. State v Gray is a fictionalized scenario that draws inspiration from real-life occurrences. Here, however, the issue of race is purposely avoided so the focus remains on whether the shooting of an unarmed individual is justified based on law. This well-balanced case file will challenge the student's advocacy and medical and forensic expert witness skills through this full trial, which includes four witnesses per side, including the experts in DNA evidence and gunshot residue collection and in police use of force. Students will prevail based entirely on their own prowess in advocacy and the way they use the abundance of evidence provided in the case file.
