Some observations that all populations have include (1) population density

(2) growth rate and (3) dispersal. Population density is measured by number of individuals per unit area, including, and not being, population size.

Population density is independent of the size of the population. Growth rate is the rate of change in population size, measured by birth rate minus death rate.

Compare models used about population characteristics.

Compare models by marking the correct column in the table below.

Observation	Density-Dependent	Density-Independent
(1) Population density increases		X
(2) Density dependent for a population	X
(3) Density dependent	X
(4) Density independent for a population		X
(5) I suspect the results of question	X

Observations of deer which live in the mountains in Utah, include the following items in class:
