Tech for All Lauren Comito, 2019-02-08 How can libraries ensure that patrons from all socio economic and ethnic backgrounds have access to advanced technology training and hardware Everyone knows libraries provide access to computers and the internet for day to day use but many libraries have gone beyond those basic services Makerspaces and advanced tech training are often not equitably distributed between differing communities The digital divide is still very real and by not providing equal access to maker spaces and other similar services libraries may be unintentionally contributing to that divide This book examines how the unequal distribution of resources between communities can limit access to emerging technologies Chapters from librarians across the country give real world examples of libraries going the extra mile to bring more than just email access to their communities regardless of economic status or geographic distribution You ll find practical plans put forward by working professionals who have sought pragmatic solutions to issues of digital literacy Access is a through line in this work as people look at the larger ideas of access as inclusive of training diverse technologies and the time and space to make genuine growth in tech literacy Chapters include working with immigrants low cost laptops for library use deep dives into the underpinnings of the maker movement and developing community focused technology training After reading this book librarians should have practical ideas to address the issue of equity in access to emerging technologies in their own communities

Trends in Allergy IV Johannes Ring, Heidrun Behrendt, Dieter Vieluf, 2012-12-06 There is no doubt among experts that the prevalence of allergic diseases has increased in many industrialized countries in recent years The reasons for this increase are unknown only suppositions exist Many people focus on environmental influences However the assumption that air pollution alone is responsible for this increase seems to be too simple many other influences including the genetic predisposition of individual patients allergen exposure and possibly socioeconomic factors also have to be taken into consideration Although our understanding of the complex mechanisms of allergic diseases has considerably improved thanks to the progress made in experimental immunology and allergology we still have a long way to go before this scientific knowledge is translated into new therapeutic modalities For this reason the scientific community welcomed the gathering of scientists from very different disciplines and different parts of the world at an international symposium New Trends in Allergy IV together with Environmental Allergy and Allergotoxicology III in Hamburg in 1995 This volume contains the invited papers covering a wide range from basic science to practical clinical diagnosis and therapy A further unique feature of this event was the concomitant first official workshop of the Environmental Pollution and Allergy Committee of the International Association of Allergy and Clinical Immunology IAACI at which the state of scientific knowledge in this field was defined and formulated
