(Dis)identifications and Diversities Sirpa Leppanen,Elina Westinen,Samu Kytola,2016-12-08 This volume serves as an in depth investigation of the diversity of means and practices that constitute dis identification and identity construction in social media Given the increasing prevalence of social media in everyday life and the subsequent growing diversity in the types of participants and forms of participation the book makes the case for a rigorous analysis of social media discourses and digital literacy practices to demonstrate the range of semiotic resources used in online communication that form the foundation of dis identification processes Divided into two major sections delineating between the dis identification of the self across various social categories and the dis identification of the self in relation to the other the book employs a discourse ethnographic approach to highlight the value of this type of theoretical framework in providing nuanced descriptions of identity construction in social media and illuminating their larger long term societal and cultural implications This volume is a key resource for researchers and students in sociolinguistics discourse studies computer mediated communication and cultural studies Causation and Reasoning Constructions Masaru Kanetani,2019-03-15 Causation and reasoning are different but related types of relationships Both causal relations and reasoning processes may be expressed with one and the same connective word in some languages English speakers use because and Japanese speakers use kara How then are causation and reasoning processes related to and different from each other How do we construe and encode them How is because different from other conjunctions with similar meanings To account for these and related empirical questions this book presents an integrated analysis in accordance with the original principles of Construction Grammar In particular the book shows that the analysis proposed is compatible with our general knowledge about causation and reasoning and that it is valid for English and Japanese The proposed analysis is also comprehensively applicable to a variety of related phenomena ranging from the just because X doesn t mean Y construction to the innovative and less known because X construction
