

The main workspace is divided into two primary sections. On the left is a piano roll editor with a grid of notes and a MIDI keyboard at the bottom. On the right is a mixer section with multiple tracks, each having a fader and a solo button. The tracks are color-coded and labeled with names like 'Drums', 'Bass', and 'Vocals'. The piano roll shows a sequence of notes with stems and heads, indicating a musical composition in progress.

This section contains the mixer and master output. It features a series of vertical faders for each track, a master fader, and a master meter. The mixer section includes various knobs and buttons for adjusting the sound of each track. The master section shows the overall output level and metering. The interface is dark-themed with a grid-like layout for the mixer controls.
