N Crooks investigates how edtech functions in Los Angeles public schools that exclusively serve Latinx and Black communities These so called urban schools are sites of intense ongoing technological transformation where the tantalizing possibilities of access to computing meet the realities of structural inequality Crooks shows how data intensive edtech delivers value to privileged individuals and commercial organizations but never to the communities that hope to share in the benefits He persuasively argues that data drivenness ultimately enjoins the public to participate in a racial project marked by the extraction of capital from minoritized communities to enrich the tech sector
