Pharmaceutical Compounding and Dispensing John F. Marriott, John Marriott, 2006 This is a detailed and practical guide to the theory and practice of extemporaneous compounding and dispensing and a source of reference to extemporaneous formulae Pharmacists have been responsible for compounding medicines for centuries and there is currently a dearth of current information on the topic yet it is still taught in schools of pharmacy and required in community and hospital departments and by special manufacturers and in development of new products in industry This is a modern detailed and practical guide to the theory and practice of extemporaneous compounding and dispensing which will equip readers with the knowledge required for producing extemporaneous formulations safely and effectively Calculations for Pharmaceutical Practice Arthur J. Winfield, Ivan Edafiogho, 2005 A comprehensive and clearly written book on pharmacy calculations which covers all the calculations that students of pharmacy need to know in relation to pharmacy practice and clinical pharmacy It includes a large number of self testing questions at the end of each chapter as well as some mock UK registration exam papers The self testing aspect is important and is in line with the educational premise that it is only through practice of calculations that true competence is achieved The book will be especially useful for anyone preparing for registration exams in pharmacy in particular those based on the UK exam It will be an invaluable tool in developing the critical skills necessary for student and prereg pharmacists and will also be a useful reference during subsequent practice Contains self study questions and answers many with worked examples Includes mock registration exam papers Ideal for exam preparation and as a reference for later practice Includes a chapter on pharmacokinetics Serves as a useful reference during practice
