ABSTRACT

Background: Postnatal period is the most vulnerable time, because the majority of neonatal and maternal death deaths occur during this period, especially within the first month after birth. In spite of its importance, this period is generally neglected. Objectives: To estimate utilization of postnatal care services and to study the factors associated with utilization of postnatal care among the postnatal mothers of urban slums of Jorhat town. Methods: Community based cross-sectional study was carried out in urban slums of Jorhat town. 94 postnatal mothers, who delivered during the time period of 16th October, 2018 to 15th October, 2019 were included from two randomly selected urban slums. Collected data were analysed using SPSS16. Results: Out of 94 mothers, 24.5% were illiterate, 26.6% were educated up to high school standard and only 6.4% of subjects were graduate. We observed 91.5% of the study subjects availed postnatal check-up (PNC), whereas only 23.4% had complete PNC ( $\geq 3$  PNC) and 8.3% did not have any PNC. Multivariate analysis showed education as a strong predictor (AOR: 1.463, CI: 1.054-2.030) of utilization of postnatal care services. Conclusion: Education was found to be strong predictor in complete utilization of postnatal check-up. Other factors affecting the utilization of complete PNC were adequate birth spacing, primigravida and age at marriage above eighteen years.

Keywords: Postnatal care, utilization, health facility, education, urban slum.

Postnatal care is one of the key strategies for attaining at the targeted maternal mortality ratio of 70 lakh live birth under the objective 3.1 of the Sustainable Development Goal (SDG) by the year 2030<sup>1</sup>. Evidence from a previous study reveals that post-natal mortalities accounts for more than 60% of maternal death in developing countries and the United Nation<sup>2</sup>. Medical care during the postnatal period is of utmost important for the survival of both mother and her newborn baby.

World Health Organization defines the postnatal period as "immediately after birth of the baby and extends up to six weeks (42 days) after birth"<sup>3</sup>. Majority of neonatal and maternal death can be prevented by meticulous monitoring and timely appropriate medical interventions.

The postpartum care should include a physical examination of both mother and baby for timely detection and treatment of complications and diseases, maintaining warm chain, advice about colostrum and exclusive breast feeding, family planning, immunization and maternal nutrition<sup>4</sup>.

World Health Organization technical guidelines of 2013 recommend minimum of three additional postnatal check-ups for all mothers and newborns, on day 3 (48-72 hours), between days 7-14 after birth, and six weeks after birth for hospital delivery<sup>5</sup>. Although the emphasis is placed by the government for the thorough improvement of maternal health care under the concept of "continuum of care" which include adolescence, pre-pregnancy, childbirth and postnatal period, childhood,<sup>6</sup> a varying degree of reluctance are seen in availing the recommended three post natal care services. The report of NFHS 5 reveals the proportion of mothers receiving post-natal check-up within two days of delivery as Received: 3rd September 2021, Peer review completed: 20th December 2021, Accepted: 30th December 2021.

Social Determinants of Women's Health in Low and Middle Income Countries Rubeena Zakar, Parveen Ali, Gaurang Baxi, Sarosh Iqbal, 2024-11-11 It is well established that the social determinants of health SDH highly influence health outcomes and inequities This is particularly true in low and middle income countries where women are deprived of their basic rights including access to health services appropriate nutrition and education Socio cultural practices such as child marriages forced marriages cousin marriages female genital mutilation and son preference undermine women health and well being Additionally various negative stereotypes such as pregnancy and childbirth related taboos dowry and honor related violence restrictions on women s mobility and social participation are significantly associated with women s health status To improve women s sexual and reproductive health societies must take comprehensive and integrated measures to address these cultural stereotypes and harmful sociocultural practices against women A SDH approach dictates that health is shaped importantly by various individual factors and community norms that further enable or constrain health Individual factors include education income ethnicity and the environment wherein people live including their families communities and workplace Macro level social factors include the labor market schools healthcare systems legal systems institutionalized practices and ideologies In many low and middle income countries women are still socially excluded and economically marginalized They lack opportunities for education economic growth and political participation There are many social drivers associated with maternal health Many negative life experiences such as infertility and perinatal loss poverty discrimination social inequalities lack of autonomy violence economic dependency and isolation have long lasting impact on mothers mental health and wellbeing To comprehensively understand the drive of maternal health a multilevel and bio social approach of social determinants of women s health is integral been measured Impeding progress are perceptions that diagnostic errors primarily arise from inadequate medical training overworked and stressed providers and innocent mistakes and subsequently that interventions should focus on training and clinical management However additional aspects that potentially affect diagnostic accuracy have been identified effective communication and patient engagement especially in multilingual and multicultural groups where perceptions and beliefs may not be shared or understood medical conditions with ambiguous signs and or vague symptoms settings with limited access to advanced technologies social cultural and economic structures and organization and management of care delivery Recent epidemiological studies indicate that diagnostic errors vary considerably across sociodemographic cultural and socioeconomic groups suggesting that underlying determinants range well beyond the clinical encounters and settings

Assessment Of Utilization Of Postnatal Care Services In: Bestsellers in 2023 The year 2023 has witnessed a remarkable surge in literary brilliance, with numerous compelling novels captivating the hearts of readers worldwide. Lets delve into the realm of bestselling books, exploring the captivating narratives that have captivated audiences this year. The Must-Read : Colleen Hoover's "It Ends with Us" This heartfelt tale of love, loss, and resilience has gripped readers with its raw and emotional exploration of domestic abuse. Hoover masterfully weaves a story of hope and healing, reminding us that even in the darkest of times, the human spirit can triumph. Assessment Of Utilization Of Postnatal Care Services In : Taylor Jenkins Reids "The Seven Husbands of Evelyn Hugo" This spellbinding historical fiction novel unravels the life of Evelyn Hugo, a Hollywood icon who defies expectations and societal norms to pursue her dreams. Reids absorbing storytelling and compelling characters transport readers to a bygone era, immersing them in a world of glamour, ambition, and self-discovery. Discover the Magic : Delia Owens "Where the Crawdads Sing" This evocative coming-of-age story follows Kya Clark, a young woman who grows up alone in the marshes of North Carolina. Owens weaves a tale of resilience, survival, and the transformative power of nature, captivating readers with its evocative prose and mesmerizing setting. These top-selling novels represent just a fraction of the literary treasures that have emerged in 2023. Whether you seek tales of romance, adventure, or personal growth, the world of literature offers an abundance of compelling stories waiting to be discovered. The novel begins with Richard Papan, a bright but troubled young man, arriving at Hampden College. Richard is immediately drawn to the group of students who call themselves the Classics Club. The club is led by Henry Winter, a brilliant and charismatic young man. Henry is obsessed with Greek mythology and philosophy, and he quickly draws Richard into his world. The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and suspenseful novel that will keep you wondering until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
