Arthropod Diversity and Conservation David L. Hawksworth, Alan T. Bull, 2007-01-25 Despite their enormous bulk and complexity of architecture plants make up only around a quarter of a million of the 8 million or so species on Earth The major components of biodiversity instead are the smaller largely unseen silent majority of invertebrates most of which are arthropods Vertebrates a mere blip on the biotic horizon are elevated in importance in the bigger scheme of things only by the human psyche This collection of more than 30 peer reviewed papers focuses on the diversity and conservation of arthropods whose species inhabit virtually every recess and plane and feature somewhere in virtually every food web on the planet Highlighting issues ranging from large scale disturbance to local management and from spatial heterogeneity to temporal patterns these papers reflect some of the most exciting new research taking place today and in some of the most biodiverse corners of the planet
