cycles such as Inequality Mother Nature Technology and the Human Spirit will collapse during the Decade of Turbulence 2020 2030 As a result Pandemics will expect much more from governments and when their neglect is not addressed they will rebel They will go straight after the technocratic elites and the foundations of the capitalist system The lack of solutions to these problems from liberal governments will push them to rekindle old models and left wing utopias Liberalism the ideology of freedom human dignity and science which enabled the greatest reduction in poverty in human history is now dominated by exclusive self serving technocratic elites The complex system they created can only be enjoyed by a select few while common citizens become ever more alienated from their governments The end of a society based around the middle class and meritocracy is happening amidst a crisis of human spirit and worsened by the toxic relationship between technological development and the crumbling of certain social institutions New rituals and forms of relating to each other have not yet taken their place In his book The Uprising of the Pandemics financial specialist and economic analyst Federico Dominguez employs his clear prose and clever analysis of the available information to convey the elements needed for understanding this new generation the challenging decade that lies ahead and the personal collective economic and business changes that will be crucial in overcoming the turbulent times on the horizon
