

Evaluate the effects of industrialization of U.S. society in the years 1865-1900.

Between 1865 and 1900, the industrialization of American society resulted in significant economic, social, and political changes because of new technologies that increased output, immigrants' access to cheap labor, new labor unions, and corporate dominance.

Economically, industrialization has increased American productivity and wealth thanks to new discoveries and immigration. The cost-of-living index and historical statistics of the United States reveal how prices for food, fuel, and illumination decreased between 1870 and 1899. (Doc 1). Faster and safer transportation (Otis elevator, automobiles), raw resources (coal, iron), and new innovations (light bulb, Otis, elevator, fridge carts, telegraph) helped during the second industrial revolution to lead to faster manufacturing of goods which causes the costs to go down. David A. Wells describes how the economic changes that occurred in America in 1889, which replaced the use of skills and individualism in work with the use of simple operations and teaching people to do one thing while sounding disgusted yet disappointed, had an impact on production, the distribution of wealth, and the state of society (Doc2). In order to escape the poverty and repression of their native countries, immigrants would travel to America in search of employment and better opportunities, working in sweatshops and on railroads. In order to support their families, immigrants would find jobs in factories, but they would be paid low wages in order to make the products more affordable. This was due to a combination of new inventions that helped with faster manufacturing, changing the work environment from rural farms to factories, and the cheap labor provided by the wave of new immigrants (Italians, Polish).

With the emergence of fresh labor organizations and movements, industrialization has socially altered the United States and made people more conscious of the rights and safety of the working class. The working class demanded better treatment and protection as human beings in 1893, according to Samuel Gompers, who spoke before the International Labor Congress in Chicago (Doc6). Many factory workers would overlook their health and safety, resulting in workplace hazards such as machine-related injuries and unhygienic conditions. For example, the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire demonstrated inadequate working conditions when many employees were unable to escape and sparked a wave of new labor laws and safety regulations to involve the government in enterprises for safety and sanitary inspections. The campaign for safer working conditions, higher pay, and shorter workweeks was aided by the formation of numerous labor unions, such as the Farmers Alliance, a rural southern movement that wanted social and economic reform. In 1892, the Omaha Morning World-Herald published the "People's Party Platform," which discusses the populist party and how it should be run (Doc5). The populist party was established to support the working people by restoring the government, as businesses and industry were starting to have a significant impact on American politics. The mistreatment of working class people and the changes they desire to the industrial system and government are discussed in both (Doc5) and (Doc6).

Government policy has evolved to favor corporations. Captains of industry, such as Rockefeller with Standard Oil, are known as robber barons. Rockefeller employed strategies like horizontal and vertical integration to become wealthy. In 1898, George Rice wrote in the New York World about how Rockefeller destroyed his and other enterprises, including Ohio Oil Works (Doc7). In order to undercut his rivals' prices and ultimately drive them out of business, Rockefeller would drop the price of his gasoline. He would then buy out the remaining members of his rivalry to form the Standard Oil Company. In the North American Review from 1889, Andrew Carnegie discusses his responsibility as a successful individual and how he might use his position to the community's advantage (Doc4).

Before selling it to J.P. Morgan, who founded U.S. Steel and made numerous charity contributions, Andrew Carnegie founded Carnegie Steel, which sponsored scientific research through the Carnegie Institution. Additionally, Joseph Keppler produced the 1889 painting "The Bosses of the Senate" to illustrate how businesses and industries have a significant impact on American politics (Doc3). These industries can persuade others to pass legislation that would be advantageous to them and their industry because they have such sway over our government due to the important roles they play in our economic system.

Between 1865 and 1900, industrialization had an impact on American society through social, economic, and political changes brought about by new inventions that aided in production, unions that fought for workers' rights, and industries that altered our government. This makes me think of slavery in America before the American Civil War, when slaves significantly enhanced cotton production and boosted the U.S. economy. Slaves, immigrants, and industrial employees all experienced harsh treatment and discrimination in society, making it difficult for them to rise up the social scale and escape poverty.
