Extended Comparison Tool for Major Highway Projects James H. Lambert, 2003 Under the Virginia Transportation Act signed into law in April 2000 more than 10 billion would have been invested in highway construction public transportation airports and ports during the following 6 years However recent budgetary constraints will result in a delay in investing more than 2 billion in road projects for more than a decade In the current study a previously developed comparison tool was extended to bring quantitative evidence of safety and categorical evidence of broad motivations to planners engineers and the public in comparing the benefits of proposed transportation projects The extended tool developed in the current study provides visual devices for presenting multifaceted information about project attributes Policymakers and planners may find the presentation useful in assessing what types of projects are being undertaken and what projects to prefer to others The extended tool represents project information including cost average daily traffic and crash rates for comparison and prioritization of the 1 500 candidate projects that constitute the development plan of Virginia highways The extended tool is flexible to accommodate applications such as project selection planning and programming Several sources of information include the crash databases of the Virginia Department of Transportation VDOT and project plans for districts and localities The extended tool enables planners to identify principal motivations for various projects based on categories defined by the Transportation Equity Act for the 21st Century The tool introduces summary reports of criteria including project aggregate costs and counts of projects with particular motivations facilitating system level analyses and project ranking The summary reports can be useful to interpret outcomes of human deliberation or multicriteria rating and ranking processes some of which are demonstrated in this study in the body of the report and in a substantial appendix The major innovation of the extended comparison tool is its ability to synthesize the relevant quantitative and categorical information on a large and diverse portfolio of highway investments bringing more evidence to the table earlier in the planning process Three case studies demonstrate the application of the extended comparison tool in short medium and long term transportation plans These case studies are the VDOT Culpeper District Transportation Development Plan a 6 year plan long range financially constrained plans of selected small Virginia localities and the long range plan of the Thomas Jefferson Planning District Commission The incremental data to assess over 100 projects in a VDOT District Six Year Plan were collected in 90 minutes providing an advantage over typical methods that can require several hours or more per project

Recommendations are given for implementation of the extended comparison tool and further development of the software prototype

Green Keynesianism and the Global Financial Crisis Kyla Tienhaara, 2018-04-17 It is widely accepted that limiting climate change to 2 C will require substantial and sustained investments in low carbon technologies and infrastructure However the dominance of market fundamentalism in economic thinking for the past three decades has meant that governments have generally viewed large spending programs as politically undesirable In this context the Global Financial Crisis GFC represented a huge opportunity for proponents of public investment in environmental projects or Green Keynesianism This book examines the experience of Australia Canada Japan Korea and the United States with Green Keynesian stimulus programs in the wake of the GFC Unfortunately on the whole the cases do not provide much optimism for proponents of Green Keynesianism Much less funding than was originally allocated to green programs was actually spent in areas that would produce an environmental benefit Furthermore a number of projects had negligible or even detrimental environmental outcomes While the book also documents several success stories the research indicates overall that more careful consideration of the design of green stimulus programs is needed In addition to concrete policy advice the book provides a broader vision for how governments could use Keynesian policies to work toward creating an ecological state This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental politics environmental economics political economy and sustainable development
