

Light Zone City

Light Planning in the Urban Context

Christa van Santen

Birkhäuser

An aerial night photograph of a city, likely Austin, Texas, showing a dense urban landscape with numerous lights. A prominent feature is a glowing, translucent, funnel-shaped light zone that originates from a point on the left and tapers as it extends towards the center-right of the image. This light zone appears to be a conceptual overlay, possibly representing a light pollution boundary or a specific urban planning zone. The city's lights are a mix of warm yellow and white, with some green and blue highlights. In the background, a large, illuminated domed building, likely a state capitol, is visible on the right side. The overall scene is a blend of real-world urban imagery and a futuristic or conceptual light planning visualization.
