the arrangement that grants various monopolies to today's professionals. They argue that our current professions are antiquated, opaque, and no longer affordable, and that the expertise of their best is enjoyed only by a few. In their place, they propose five new models for producing and distributing expertise in society. The book raises profound policy issues, not least about employment: they envisage a new generation of open-collared workers, and about control over online expertise, they warn of new gatekeepers in an era when machines become more capable than human beings at most tasks. With a new preface exploring recent critical developments, this updated edition builds on the author's groundbreaking research into more than a dozen professions. Illustrated with numerous examples from each, this is the first book to assess and question the relevance of the professions in the 21st century.
