and investments taxes money management home ownership and many other personal finance topics Shut Out Kevin Erdmann,2019-01-21 The United States suffers from a shortage of well placed homes This was true even at the peak of the housing boom in 2005 Using a broad array of evidence on housing inflation income migration homeownership trends and international comparisons Shut Out demonstrates that high home prices have been largely caused by the constrained housing supply in a handful of magnet cities leading the new economy The same phenomenon is occurring in leading countries across the globe Gentrifying cities have become exclusionary bastions in the new postindustrial economy The US housing bubble that peaked in 2005 is more accurately described as a refugee crisis than a credit bubble Surging demand for limited urban housing triggered a spike of migration away from the magnet cities among households with moderate and lower incomes who could no longer afford to remain causing a brief contagion of high prices in the cities where the migrants moved In this book author Kevin Erdmann observes that the housing bubble has been broadly and incorrectly attributed to various excesses Policymakers and economists concluded that our key challenge was that we had built too many homes This misdiagnosis of the problem according to Erdmann led to misguided public policies which were the primary cause of the subsequent financial crisis A sort of moral panic about supposed excesses in home lending and construction led to destabilizing monetary and regulatory decisions As the economy slumped a sense of fatalism prevented the government from responding appropriately to the worsening situation Shut Out provides a much needed correction to the causes and consequences of financial crises and secular stagnation Principles of Bookkeeping and Business Charles Ellis
