Strategic Positioning Analysis:

Essays on Strategy Analysis for Seaports Elvira Haezendonck, 2001 The increasingly competitive market environment in which port clusters operate today imposes new requirements on port strategy analysis Many port authorities and port operators now realize that a static approach to cost leadership a sole focus on inherited factor advantages and a simplistic reliance on new infrastructure to attract or retain clients are no longer sufficient to guarantee a port's competitive success They need to offer greater value added to port users as well as to society Hence this new market environment forces ports to reconsider their present strategic position and to reflect on the strategic options for the future The book builds upon an in depth survey of economic actors in the Antwerp seaport cluster with a specific focus on the container and conventional cargo clusters It attempts to answer the question why these particular port clusters are more competitive than similar clusters in other ports In order to answer this question the study develops and extends a number of formal tools of strategy analysis that should be useful to both port authorities and port operators

Analysis of Strategic Move by Chipotle Ernesto Paiz, Dave Anderson, Ryan Barone, Mark Toguchi, Kristina Calderon, Frank Lin, Brian Bollinger, 2011-06 Project Report from the year 2011 in the subject Business economics Company formation Business Plans grade B Santa Clara University language English abstract Chipotle Mexican Grill hereafter referred to as Chipotle is a fast casual restaurant that specializes in a limited menu mainly consisting of burritos tacos and burrito bowls Chipotle is known for its ability to offer products made from sustainable organic ingredients while remaining price competitive with other fast food chains Chipotle refers to this differentiation as food with integrity and it is the driving force that has propelled the company to where it is today Since its foundation in 1993 Chipotle has been tremendously successful growing into a corporation that is now worth roughly 8.5 billion 56 Chipotle's growth is a direct result of the quality of its products the consistency of its service and the perceived differentiated value it has established in the minds of consumers Chipotle stands apart from others in a highly concentrated industry because it does business differently in terms of its food restaurants and advertising While most fast food chains rely on advertisements that promote menu gimmicks such as limited time price reductions new items value menu offerings and more Chipotle focuses on showcasing its quality ingredients It also generates excitement for its food through a number promotional events and word of mouth Strategic Move Even though the restaurant and bar industry is saturated there are not many competitors that offer organic ingredients within the industry To take advantage of the recent surge of consumers who demand healthier organic food Chipotle has decided to enter into the fast casual Asian restaurant market with a new chain named ShopHouse Southeast Asian Kitchen hereafter referred to as ShopHouse Staying true to its position as a focused differentiator Chipotle will operate ShopHouse under the same philosophy that has made it so s

What was the strategic position of Daimler Chrysler in the European car manufacturing industry from 1980 until the beginning of the new century? Dennis Sander, 2004-10-07 Master s Thesis from the year 2003 in the subject Business economics Business Management Corporate Governance grade 2 1 B University of Canterbury Canterbury Business School language English abstract This dissertation is about strategic positioning and managing strategic change The first chapter makes clear the importance of clear defined strategy mergers acquisitions as well as alliances resulting out of increasing globalisation and gives Daimler Chrysler as a good example for analysing these managerial issues Chapter two shows different strategies Daimler Chrysler was following a diversified one in the 80 s and a focused orientated strategy in the 90 s Increasing threats of saturated markets global competition fluctuating economic influences and rising technological standards had have to be coped with by Daimler Chrysler in using their strengths of wellknown brand reputation high quality standards and developed service culture The result was a strategic position emphasising the upper car segment in the 80 s as well as reliable commercial vehicle and a completer range of products in the 90 s trying to serve nearly all segments in the car market Chapter three deals with the management of strategic change and the process of becoming a global player in the car manufacturing industry Problems a merger causes concerning differences in culture and management are considered and the act that concentration of power as it happened at Daimler Chrysler at the time while the merger took place on charismatic top management obviously paid off in the late 90 s The final chapter four demonstrates the difficulty of fostering successful change management and the necessity of mergers and alliances when following a global concentric growth strategy It becomes obvious that although the automobile industry is confronted with severe competition Daimler Chrysler has the potential of getting the major player in this industry When following consequently the chosen path of focussing on the car manufacturing sector and implementing new technologies and customer demands fast faster than potential competitors then Daimler Chrysler will be at the top of the league in the future

Strategic Value Richard Stewart, 2012-07-01 Right now businesses are operating in an environment of volatility and risk never before seen in financial markets Uncertainty is up confidence is down and value is anyone s guess there s never been a greater need to understand value and to be able to assess it And there s never been a better time to make real changes to improve the overall competitive advantage of your business StRAtEGIC VALUE provides a lucid framework for assessing how much your business is worth what risks confront it and how you can add value to it First StRAtEGIC VALUE offers a clear guide to conducting a valuation Next it addresses

what to do when things go wrong equipping readers with four tried and tested methods for analysing risk because as valuation expert Richard Stewart points out when the stakes are high and the risks are real knowledge is power the picture is completed with five ways in which a senior executive can increase the value of their business this down to earth and exceptionally practical guide draws on parallels with sailing gambling and poker the reason Just as in business valuation all three endeavours require participants to understand what s at stake and the risk associated with that stake and to grasp the strategies through which they might improve their position In today s post GFC economy valuation is not so much an accounting add on as a core business skill StRAtEGIC VALUE is vital reading for CFOs and senior financial executives heads of strategy current and future entrepreneurs investors especially corporate portfolio managers and any businessperson who has responsibility for the strategic direction of their company

2009 Nintendo was placed fifth in the BusinessWeek's ranking of the world's most innovative companies. This confirms Nintendo's significant rearrangement into an innovative design powerhouse that redefined the predominant business value factors of the video game industry. However, a few years ago, no analyst would have anticipated that Nintendo would develop in this direction. Until the mid-1990s, the global home video game console industry was dominated by Nintendo, a Japanese video game hardware and software manufacturer. Rivalry in this industry only marginally existed. This changed when Sony entered the market in 1994. By offering a console that was technologically superior, Sony outperformed the then Nintendo console. Thereby, new challenges arose for the Japanese company. Nintendo lost its long-lasting market leadership to the new entrant. Despite several trials to recapture market leadership during the end-1990s, Nintendo was stuck in second place. Instead of regaining market share, the opposite was the case when Microsoft, a computer software giant, joined the market in 2001. Nintendo's market share slipped dramatically because they were not able to keep up the technological progress of its competitors. The former market leader fell back to the third place of the industry. Analysts of the video game entertainment industry even recommended that Nintendo withdraw completely from the highly competitive console market in order to concentrate on developing software.⁴ However, Nintendo refused to surrender but they were in biggest need to recover market share. Nintendo had a very different approach to strategy than Sony or Microsoft. Instead of competing for core gamers, Nintendo tried to expand the market and to win new customers.

Low-cost carrier industry: A focus on Germanwings strategy

Volker Küpper, 2008-05-16 Essay from the year 2007 in the subject Business economics General grade 1.0
Edinburgh Napier University course Economics of Business Strategy language English abstract

Since the world's first airline company has been established, German Airship Transport Corporation in 1909, especially the new style of low-cost airlines, increased the competition on the market for commercial flights. Towards the end of the century, low-cost airlines offered first-class products at a low price. The concept originated in the U.S. before it spread to Europe in the early 1990s and subsequently to the rest of the world. Chan (2000) states that one main reason for the accelerated increase of low-cost flights can be seen in the EU enlargement where open skies arrangements were extended. As a result, low-cost routes were established by existing and new operators. The main characteristic of this new strategic orientation was the lower operating cost structure than that of the traditional market participants. The traditional airline industry had to face an essential change in the market with an increase of competition and new business models. Focusing on Europe, there were only a few low-cost airlines before the year of 2000. However, today about 60 low-cost carriers moved mainstream in Europe with a total market share of 24%, whereas in Germany 23 low-cost airlines operate. Berster (2007) states that to evaluate the specific strategy of Germanwings, it is necessary to set limits to the field of study. After introducing the company itself, the strategic position will be evaluated by focusing on Germany. Thus, Germanwings will be compared to the operators acting in this country. Therefore, it is useful to introduce a strategic mapping and the analysis of price practices focusing on Germanwings. Furthermore, important individual measures of the company will be explained which soften the impact of the above mentioned external influencing factors PEST analysis Finally some up to date measures of the company will conclude its strategic orientation
