The action takes place in a hedge-school in the townland of Balle Beag' Ballybeg, an Irish-speaking community in County Donegal.

- ACT ONE: An afternoon in late August 1853.
 - ACT TWO: A few days later.
 - ACT THREE: The evening of the following day.
- One interval—between the two scenes in Act Two.

Act One

The hedge-school is held in a dilapidated barn or hay-shed or byre. Along the back wall are the remains of five or six stalls—wooden posts and chains—where cows were once milked and bedded. A double door left, large enough to allow a cart to enter. A window right. A wooden stairway without a banister leads to the captain's living-quarters (off) of the schoolmaster and his son. Around the room are broken and forgotten implements: a cart-wheel, some lobster-pots, farming tools, a bottle of hay, a churn, etc.

Rereading Schleiermacher: Translation, Cognition and Culture Teresa Seruya, José Miranda Justo, 2015-11-30 This book celebrates the bicentenary of Schleiermacher s famous Berlin conference On the Different Methods of Translating 1813 It is the product of an international Call for Papers that welcomed scholars from many international universities inviting them to discuss and illuminate the theoretical and practical reception of a text that is not only arguably canonical for the history and theory of translation but which has moreover never ceased to be present both in theoretical and applied Translation Studies and remains a mandatory part of translator training A further reason for initiating this project was the fact that the German philosopher and theologian Friedrich Schleiermacher though often cited in Translation Studies up to the present day was never studied in terms of his real impact on different domains of translation literature and culture

English Counter Russian Munir Sendich, 1999 English Counter Russian examines English Russian literary translations of works by seven renowned authors and a critic Pasternak Chukovsky Voinovich Tolstoy Dostoevsky Chekhov Hemingway and Paustovsky Focusing on translation criticism that exposes all linguistic features of the original this book includes the most salient qualities of the original s style and spirit In so doing Professor Sendich establishes linguistic categories best suitable for detection of translation's infelicities and excellence. Such a linguistic approach has helped him draw compelling conclusions regarding the overall quality and ranking of the translations.

Author of other texts such as Dancing at Lughnasa and Philadelphia Here I Come. Friel is also a short story writer, journalist, critic, co-founder of the Field Day theatre company and former member of the Irish Senate. In addition to the annotated bibliography of secondary scholarship, this volume contains a bibliography of Friel's published works and a listing of productions of his plays. PN Review, 2006 Voices in Translation Gunilla M. Anderman, 2007 This volume explores dialect translation and the problems facing the translator in bridging cultural divides. The book begins by discussing how to make a wide range of European voices sing in translation, then goes on to illustrate the different solutions employed in conveying them. I Read where I Am Mieke Gerritzen, Geert Lovink, Minke Kampman, 2011 I read where I am compiles 82 reflections on future forms of reading.

HJEAS, 2003 Translation Perspectives: The theater of translation Marilyn Gaddis Rose, 2003 The Field Day Archive Cormac Ó Duibhne, 2007 "Clearing the Ground" Carmen Szabo, 2007 Clearing the Ground The Field Day Theatre Company and the Construction of Irish Identities studies the Field Day Theatre Company with special focus on the plays that they put on stage between 1980 and 1995. It attempts to dissect their policy and observe the way in which this policy influences the discourse of the theatrical productions. Was Field Day simply the cultural wing of Sinn Féin and the IRA, or did they try to give voice to a new critical discourse challenging the traditional frames of representation? This book focuses on a thorough analysis of the way in which Field Day applied the concepts of postcolonial discourse to their own needs of creating a foundation for the ideological manifesto of the company. This study is a critique of the successes and failures of a theatre company that in a period of political and cultural crisis engaged in innovative ways of discussing the sensitive issues of identity, memory and history in Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland. The Internationalism of Irish Literature and Drama Joseph McMinn, Anne McMaster, Angela Welch, 1992 The international reputation and appeal of Irish literature are reflected in the fact that the contributors are from all corners of the world: North America, Europe, Scandinavia, Africa and India. The collection reveals the extraordinary influence that Ireland has had on world literature, especially as a model for colonial and nationalist cultures. A host of Irish writers, particularly dramatists, has been translated and adapted in countries attracted to the individuality as well as the universality of their themes. Very often the outsiders' insight into Irish literature shows a directness and sensitivity which are most illuminating and instructive. A revelation of this collection is the way so many Irish writers have embraced and been deeply influenced by the culture of other nations. Important new documentary work on writers such as Maria Edgeworth, W. B. Yeats, George Russell and Derek Mahon are to be found here The collection is both a celebration of a truly internationalised field of study and a tribute to a literature which has successfully emigrated throughout the world These essays will interest all those students and scholars alike who recognise the value of culture and literary pluralism and the importance of comparative studies
