Cambridge English Past Papers:

Second Language Lexical Processes Zsolt Lengyel, Judit Navracsics, 2007-05-17 The book contains studies on second language lexical processes based on empirical findings by authors mostly from Central Europe. The reader may have access to how lexical items are stored in the memory and also to how second language lexicons work in speech processing. Questions of the two lexicons' integration or separation, the fashion of bilingual word storage, vocabulary acquisition and assessment, word retrieval from the memory and lexical access are the focus of the studies. The authors of the studies refer to analyses of different psycholinguistic experiments, e.g. a word association test, speech perception tests, a Cloze test. Assessment of written work of second language learners both at secondary school and university levels is also provided. Second language lexical acquisition processes are described and the influences of different types of languages on each other are shown. The second languages involved are mainly internationally less widely investigated and published languages of Finno-Ugric, i.e. Hungarian and Indo-European, e.g. Croatian, Polish, Russian, etc. origin, next to the more frequently studied English and German. The studies included in our volume focus on lexical acquisition and processing and also make reference to pedagogical questions. They include investigations of lexical perception, production, acquisitional processes and vocabulary assessment. The novelty of the book is that the studies make reference to Hungarian and a number of Slavic languages. They provide the reader with new perspectives on second language lexical acquisition processes when the source language and the target language are distinct from a typological point of view, the lexicon in processing terms. The book is intended for the use of undergraduate and graduate students of second language studies, psycholinguistics and/or bilingualism researchers, teachers and academics whose interests include a second language acquisition component.

International Perspectives on English as a Lingua Franca Hugo Bowles, Alessia Cogo, 2016-04-29 This collection brings new insight into the relationship between English as a lingua franca and language teaching. It explores how the pedagogy of intelligibility, culture and language awareness, as well as materials analysis and classroom management, can be viewed from an ELF perspective in school and university contexts.

English as a Vocation Christopher Hilliard, 2012-05-31 English as a Vocation is a history of the most influential movement in modern British literary criticism. F. R. Leavis and his collaborators on the Cambridge journal Scrutiny in the 1930s to the 1950s demonstrated compelling ways of reading modernist poetry, Shakespeare and the texts of advertising. Crucially, they offered a way of teaching critical reading, an approach that could be adapted for schools and adult education classes, modelled in radio talks and paperback guides to English Literature and taken up in universities as far afield as Colombo and Sydney. This book shows how a small critical school turned into a movement with an international reach. It tracks down Leavis's students, analysing the pattern of their social origins and subsequent careers in the context of twentieth-century social change. It shows how teachers transformed

Scrutiny approaches as they tried to put them into practice in grammar and secondary modern schools And it explores the complex even contradictory politics of the movement Champions of creative writing and enemies of progressive education alike based their arguments on Scrutiny s interpretation of modern culture Left Leavisites such as Raymond Williams Richard Hoggart and Stuart Hall wrought influential interpretations of social class and popular culture out of arguments with the Scrutiny tradition This is the first book to examine major figures such as these alongside the hundreds of other teachers and writers in the movement whose names are obscure but who wrestled with the same challenges how do you approach a baffling poem How do you uncover what an advertisement is trying to do How can literature inform our everyday experiences and judgements What does culture mean in modern times British Books ,1912 Books Out Loud ,2007 The English Catalogue of Books [annual].
