A Conceptual Framework for SMART Applications in Higher Education: Emerging Research and Opportunities Connelly, James Orion, Miller, Paula, 2019-11-01 With the rapid availability of information it becomes essential to keep pace with this availability as well as process the information into knowledge that has real world applications Neuroscientific methods allow an approach to this problem based on the way that the human brain already operates Over the centuries and through observation and trial and error we already know a great deal about how we can teach and learn but now we can verify this with scientific fact and discover previously unknown aspects of brain physiology These observations of brain functioning have produced many learning theories all of which have varying degrees of validity These theories in turn give birth to theories and models of instructional design which also have varying degrees of validity A Conceptual Framework for SMART Applications in Higher Education Emerging Research and Opportunities is a critical scholarly publication that explores how the brain acquires and processes information to turn information into knowledge and the role of SMART technology and how it combines and integrates visual and aural data to facilitate learning The book also discusses ways to apply what is known about teaching to how the brain operates and how to incorporate instructional design models into the teaching and learning process Highlighting various topics such as neurogenesis smart technologies and behaviorism this book is essential for instructional designers online instruction managers teachers academicians administrators researchers knowledge managers and students

The Perfect Online Course Anymir Orellana, Terry L. Hudgins, Michael Simonson, 2009-05-07 This book explores best practices for designing and teaching online courses using various instructional methods and models It reviews literature proposes guidelines and offers strategies for engagement

The Conditions of Learning Robert Mills Gagné, Karen Medsker, 1996 Applies the theoretical concepts from Gagne's THE CONDITIONS OF LEARNING AND THEORY OF INSTRUCTION FOURTH EDITION to workplace training Advocates nine events of instruction that should be employed in every complete act of learning Provides a strong theoretical and research emphasis Case studies have been selected from real world military government and private sector settings The most recent research and references in the field are cited

Learning Theories David C. Leonard, 2002-12-30 Swift changes in educational technology are transforming the landscape of our society and how we transfer knowledge in a digital world Teachers administrators and education students need to stay abreast of these developments Yet while the new educational software technologies and networks may be available the learning theories and methods required to take complete advantage of the tools are often neglected Learning theories are a crucial element of education studies for anyone involved with students from pre school to higher education and business training This book is a substantive dictionary of over 500 terms relating to learning theories and environments Definitions range from approximately 100 to 700 words and each term is identified by the primary type of learning theory to which it applies cognitivism constructivism behaviorism humanism or organizational learning An annotated bibliography provides further resources to the most important writings about learning theories The Handbook of School Psychology Terry B. Gutkin, Cecil R. Reynolds, 2012-04-13 The Fourth Edition of The Handbook of School Psychology continues the tradition of providing a unique and comprehensive outlet for disseminating the collective wisdom and insight of outstanding scholars working in the field of school psychology This edition brings together the field's latest developments in research and practice highlighting domains in which there has emerged both growing consensus and vibrant cross currents of thought and analysis Featuring chapters with new foci authors and content this edition showcases the trajectory of the field and is intended to lead students forward into an increasingly challenging and rewarding future

The Science of Learning & the Art of Teaching Jerome A. Feldman, Doug McPhee, 2008 The Science of Learning the Art of Teaching and its companion field guide provide important information for both new and experienced instructors The need for new instructors and professors at post secondary institutions is increasing with growing enrollment numbers This text and its field guide with CD ROM offer insight for the current instructor to make more powerful connections with students and enable the untrained educator to make a successful transition into the classroom It provides templates for planning a course syllabus designing lessons and preparing activities The user will also find sections on what the best teachers do that makes a difference as well as the characteristics of successful students This material is designed to be utilized as a guide for professional development and individual instructors will find it valuable for their instructional practice Strategies for Instructional Development California State University Center for Innovative Programs, 1989 Instructional Psychology and Models of School Learning Sandra Christenson, 1987 Educational Psychology Thomas Fetsco, John McClure, 2005 I applaud the vision the authors had in synthesizing this information in a way that makes the reader more confident in their application of these theories and principles to their own classrooms The authors have wonderfully succeeded in their attempt to integrate this material in a manner quite different from other texts I've read or reviewed Jim Persinger Emporia State University Any textbook that overemphasizes theory neglects the real world any textbook that overemphasizes practice neglects the underlying foundation of theory This book strikes a careful balance between theory and practice by explicitly linking the two Gregory Cutler Bay de Noc Community College By far this is the best educational psychology text I have read because it integrates and applies major learning theories to many of the daily issues future teachers will face Krista Robertson Rhode Island College I see this textbook as well written informative clearly and logically organized and a very useful component for a course in Educational Psychology I like it Raymond E Webster East Carolina University The authors have done an excellent job in producing an easy to follow format and style Paula Holmes Miller Crichton College The authors writing style and presentation level are clear and easy to read along with tables figures concept maps and other visual aids

Yuliang Liu Ph D Southern Illinois University The text is well written and some very difficult topics such as Attribution Theory and Constructivism to name just two are easy to understand when compared to similar books I think this is some of the clearest writing I have read in a long time

Michael P Verdi California State University San Bernadino I really enjoyed reading this text and I found its comprehensive nature to be a strength

Linda W Morse Mississippi State University The authors writing style is clear simple and direct It speaks directly to the reader the examples are concrete and related to education

John Isch Martin Luther College

Teleteaching Gordon Davies, Brian Samways, 1993 The primary consideration of this book is the development and application of telecommunication techniques to enhance human knowledge and skills The areas of application include education at primary secondary and university levels as well as training in various other situations particularly the workplace The papers contributed by various experts across the discipline are divided into the following themes educational aspects social aspects technology distance working and case presentations In its entirety the publication affords a probing view into this rapidly expanding and highly important technological area

Instructional Technology Frederick G. Knirk, Kent L. Gustafson, 1986

Constructing Undergraduate Psychology Curricula Joseph A. Mayo, 2010

Although courses differ widely across undergraduate institutions dedicated psychology educators at all academic levels share an interest in uncovering optimal teaching practices To aid the process of pedagogical discovery this book addresses three contemporary concerns of psychology teachers and links these ideas to the first five learning goals and outcomes discussed in the American Psychological Association's APA's 2007 Guidelines for the Undergraduate Psychology Major a knowledge base of psychology b research methods in psychology c critical thinking skills in psychology d application of psychology and e values in psychology Within the broad framework of a constructivist educational perspective that promotes active and enduring learning this book affords undergraduate psychology teachers opportunities to a align course content with APA endorsed student learning outcomes b integrate class tested instructional strategies with authentic or real world learning and assessment tools designed to foster higher order thinking and c assess students understandings of course content along a developmental continuum that gauges academic progress from the introductory psychology course through receipt of the baccalaureate degree This book is not meant to be prescriptive Rather it is intended as an advisory instructional resource to provide a general framework from which to approach undergraduate psychology curricula one that permits maximum flexibility in relation to faculty student and institutional differences
