Corporate Social Responsibility David Chandler,2014-11-15 The goal of this project is to detail the core defining principles of strategic CSR that differentiate it as a concept from the rest of the CSR sustainability business ethics field It is designed to be a provocative piece but one that solidifies the intellectual framework around an emerging concept strategic CSR The foundation for these principles comes from my perspective as a management professor within the business school As such it is a pragmatic philosophy oriented around stakeholder theory that is designed to persuade business leaders who are skeptical of existing definitions and organizing principles of CSR sustainability or business ethics It is also designed to stimulate thought within the community of intellectuals and business school administrators committed to these issues but who approach them from more traditional perspectives Ultimately therefore the purpose of the strategic CSR concept and this book is radical it aims to redefine both business education and business practice By building a theory that defines CSR as core to business operations and value creation as opposed to peripheral practices that can be marginalized within the firm these defining principles become applicable across the range of operational functions As such they redefine how businesses approach these functions in practice but also redefine how these subjects should be taught in business schools

Restatement of CSR Reports Matt Pinnuck,2019 We provide the first direct analysis of the reliability of the quantitative information disclosed in Corporate Social Responsibility CSR reports We examine the frequency magnitude and determinants of CSR report restatements for the Global Fortune 250 G250 from 2006 to 2013 During this period 39% of G250 CSR reports were restated with a monotonic increase across time from 29% in 2006 to 53% in 2013 The median magnitude of line item restatement is 10% with a bias toward overstatement In our exploration of determinants and economic incentives associated with CSR report restatements we find that restatement frequency is positively associated with firm environmental and social complexity and that restatements occur more frequently in firms that have reported a high level of social performance and have environmental targets We also find that frequency of restatement is positively associated with firms that reside in strong law countries and have their CSR reports audited Our analysis of reporting bias indicates a negative association between adoption of GRI reporting guidelines and the likelihood of an overstatement We also find a positive association between having the CSR report audited and the likelihood of overstatements Together our results indicate that CSR information could be unreliable and firms that face pressure to perform well have more restatements However use of measurement guidelines helps restrict managers disclosure choices and thus prevents opportunistic choice of measurement methods Auditors also appear to invest more time and effort to reduce over rather than understatement of performance

Research Handbook on Corporate Social Responsibility in Context Anders Örténblad,2016-11-25 Is corporate social responsibility CSR a universal idea Is the same exact definition of CSR relevant for any organization regardless of context Or would such a definition need to be adapted to fit different types of organizations in different cultures industries and sectors This book discusses how CSR preferably should be practiced in various generalized contexts Experts share their knowledge on whether a broad definition of CSR can be practiced as is or if it first has to undergo changes in as various generalized contexts as Buddhist and Islamic organizations developing countries the food processing industry the shipping industry and the pharmaceutical industry

CSR and Sustainability in the Public Sector David Crowther,Shahla Seifi,2020-08-27 This book focuses on CSR in the public sector in all its manifestations around the world in order to consider its application in practice and its connections to sustainable objectives This book is unique in that all chapters were written by members of the Social Responsibility Research Network Their ideas have been tested and refined through the feedback given after they were presented at the 16th International Conference The approach used in this book is based on the tradition of the Social Responsibility Research Network a worldwide body of scholars that over its 20 year history has sought to broaden the discourse and to treat all research as inter related and business relevant The book examines diverse aspects of how CSR and sustainability apply to and are applied by a variety of public bodies in a variety of ways Thus the authors focus on the priorities of these organisations in order to consider the extent to which the focus has changed so much that we need to think about new approaches to our understanding of CSR and sustainability and differing effects in practice The international mix of authors makes this an original contribution sharing some of the best ideas from around the world Global Practices of Corporate Social Responsibility Samuel O Idowu,Walter Leal Filho,2008-12-21 Being socially responsible on the part of corporate entities is now no longer an option it is part of their normal business obligations to all their stakeholders regardless of whether these are primary or secondary stakeholders Modern societies around the world now expect corporate entities of all shapes and forms to be socially responsible in whatever they do the Global Practices of Corporate Social Responsibility is a first attempt at bringing together in one book experts accounts of how corporate entities in twenty independent nations around the world are dealing with the issue of CSR The world today faces diverse social problems These become apparent as one moves from one country to the next interestingly society now expects corporations to help in finding solutions to these problems The problem of global warming affects us all modern corporations can no longer continue to assume that the problem will go away if nothing is done by them We can all make a little difference by our actions
