rhythms is far less understood This can be the enhancement of speech processing through visual signals thought to be guided via brain oscillations or the conveying of emotion which results in differential rhythmic modulations in the observer Additionally body movements and gestures often have a communicative purpose and are known to modulate sensorimotor rhythms in the observer This Research Topic of Frontiers in Human Neuroscience highlights the diverse aspects of human communication that are shaped by rhythmic activity in the brain Relevant contributions are presented from various fields including cognitive and social neuroscience neuropsychiatry and methodology As such they provide important new insights into verbal and non verbal communication pathological changes and methodological innovations
