Abstract

In many cases, business promotion costs may cause more than the cost of the product along with its research and development. Promotion through advertising is not only to introduce new products, but also to remind society of the existence of a long product in the market. However, it should be noted religion still plays a significant role in influencing social and consumer behavior either direct or indirect ways in a constantly changing and competitive world market. Goals do not justify the means and advertising cannot be as tools to increase the revenue of an organization with anything unfair. But nowadays, most of contemporary advertising makes false promises to attract new customers to buy a product which is extremely prohibited in Islam. Many of the provisions in fiqh muamalat, prohibit any method to influence the requirements of the user. Therefore this study could make important contribution in advertising industry specifically to ensure they are following Islamic principles. The objective of this study is to analyze the existence advertising through three influencing factors consist of culture, control and emotions from an Islamic perspective, conducted in Malaysia, i.e. Kedah state. This study conducted using quantitative approach where structured question was designed and the data were analyzed using correlations and multiple regressions.

Key Words: Advertising, Islamic Perspective, Malaysia.

Ads shown on television and radio funnels are very different now than before in line with the changing times and the changing of technology. To ensure delivery of advertising a product is effective, an advertisement must meet criteria that will attract users as having meaning (benefits that make consumers want to buy the product), reliable (to believe that the use of these products benefit as promised) and special (explaining benefits of these products compared to other products). It is clear understanding in Islam practices that goals do not justify the means. However, nowadays contemporary advertising becomes a crucial weapon for local as well as multinational organizations to compete against each other and gain profit with unethical manner.

The success of business much depends on the effectiveness of its advertising practices rather than the quality of product itself (Jung & Sheldon, 1995). Ads must be ascertained the truth because there is the occurrence of false explanations, which affect consumer promotions and misleading evidence. The women
