7 Stop Sepsis Triage Screening Tool Emcrit:

Impact of Emergency Department Triage Sepsis Screening Algorithm and Treatment Order Sets Danielle Marie Tester, 2022 Sepsis is a life threatening condition that can lead to tissue damage end organ damage and death if left untreated The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention defines sepsis as a severe response to an infection Sepsis is prominent health concerns worldwide as it continues to be a leading cause of mortality despite having access to health care This has impelled many health care organizations to improve sepsis related care and sepsis outcomes by formulating core measures to improve patient care The purpose of this integrative review is to discuss if initiation of an emergency department triage sepsis screening algorithm and treatment order sets can improve patient outcomes and reduce mortality as well as to determine if early identification of systemic inflammatory response syndrome criteria will improve sepsis mortality An extensive literature search was completed to find best practice regarding care of sepsis patients Recommended care included identifying sepsis during triage through use of a screening tool and using standardized treatment order sets for positive triage screening Use of systemic inflammatory response syndrome criteria also improves sepsis outcomes

Translating the Evidence of the Use of the Sepsis Screening Tool to Improve Sepsis Identification and Reduce Sepsis Mortality Nicolas Abella, 2015 Background Sepsis is a life threatening syndrome that occurs rapidly when the body s response to blood infection injures its own tissues and organs Sepsis is the most costly disease in the U S and the number one killer of patients admitted to acute care hospitals On October 1 2015 the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services CMS will start chart abstraction initiatives for Severe Sepsis and Septic Shock for the FY 2017 Payment Determination In reviewing 2013 and 2014 data from the Community Hospital System CHS the majority of patients diagnosed with sepsis were not screened for sepsis in either the ED or the in patient units meaning that CHS as a whole has 20 000 000 at stake for the CMS Value Based Purchasing payment program The main goal of this paper is to attempt to improve sepsis outcomes by closing the gap between compliance to the published sepsis treatment guidelines and daily clinical practice through the implementation of a Sepsis Screening tool Methods The planned course of work for this project is to use an existing data set that will be requested from the Executive Sponsor for all the Community Hospital System s Quality Collaborative Sr VP and CNO of the system This data will include the number of sepsis cases and the risk adjusted mortality index in 2014 as well as current year to date data Evaluation Pre and post participation outcomes are to be compared using the T test analysis The outcome measures are the number of sepsis patients identified and the number of sepsis deaths within the 19 community hospitals participating in the Quality Collaborative Significance and Implications If the hypothesis is correct the data will not only reveal an opportunity for growth but also lend a better understanding of how to increase sepsis identification and lower sepsis mortality for our community hospitals nationwide Use of the Quick Sequential Organ Failure Assessment Tool for Sepsis Screening Rodney James Buchanan, 2022 Sepsis is a clinical condition that requires early identification and initiation of evidence based interventions to improve mortality and outcomes A quality concern that has been identified is that the emergency department at the practice site is not actively screening for sepsis patients This has resulted in difficulty meeting three and six hour sepsis bundle metrics The purpose of this quality improvement project is to implement a sepsis screening methodology to correct this gap in practice The door to lactic acid collection metric will be used to determine if any statistical improvement was made after the implementation of a sepsis screening tool The screening tool selected for the project will be the qSOFA tool as this is one of the easiest tools to use and implement The quality improvement project used a quantitative methodology with quasi experimental design The results demonstrated a statistically significant improvement in the collection times of lactic acid post implementation The results further support the use of sepsis screening in the emergency department setting for rapid identification and treatment of sepsis conditions Emergency nursing plays a pivotal role in the identification and treatment of this condition as nurses are often the first healthcare professional a septic patient will encounter

Urgent Care Sepsis Identification and Treatment Protocol Christopher Brad Redden,2021 Each year there are 77 to 240 new cases of sepsis per 100 000 population in the United States It continues to be the 10th leading cause of death in the United States Riley Wheeler 2012 Unfortunately early recognition and intervention are frequently missed contributing to a mortality rate of 28% to 50% Ahrens Tuggle 2004 The Covid 19 pandemic has shifted how patients access care This shift has required urgent care centers to care for higher acuity patients including patients who present with sepsis Thus an evidence based practice EBP project was implemented to improve sepsis identification and provide early goal directed therapy to sepsis patients presenting to urgent care centers The EBP project utilized a sepsis screening tool and subsequent interventions early hydration and early antibiotic therapy The results showed a significant improvement in sepsis identification along with improvements in early hydration and early antibiotic therapy Hence the implementation of the early sepsis identification and evidence based goal directed therapy protocol in the urgent care setting yielded improved patient identification and patients receiving early goal directed therapy Key words Sepsis Urgent Care Sepsis Sepsis protocol Sepsis Identification Abstract
