

Scholarship Application

The field of educational research has grown and changed since the 1950s. Advances in technology, including the internet, have provided access to educational research and data that was previously unavailable. This has led to a more data-driven approach to education, with researchers using statistical analysis to identify trends and patterns in student performance. The field of educational research is now more interdisciplinary, with researchers from different fields such as psychology, sociology, and economics contributing to the study of education. This has led to a more holistic understanding of the factors that influence student learning and achievement.
