Leading scholars from all over the world investigate the role languages have played and now play in the formation of the national and social identity in countries throughout South East and Southeast Asia. Illustrated with maps and accessibly written, this book will interest all those concerned to understand the dynamics of social change in some of the most important countries in the world. This collection of nine articles is written by specialists from different disciplinary backgrounds and working in institutions of higher learning all around the world. It provides an up-to-date insight into the current state of the study field, its strengths and weaknesses, and seeks ways to reconfigure Southeast Asian studies in order to meet the challenges of a region that is caught up in profound transformation as a consequence of both globalization and localization.
