Numerical Correlation between Impact Factor and Web Ranking of Electronic Scientific Journals Using Regression Analysis Giorgos Kouropoulos, Γιώργος Κουρόπουλος, 2017-12-15 The present study attempts to examine the numerical correlation between web ranking of electronic scientific journals and impact factor of these journals using the method of regression analysis Regression analysis allows the option of investigating and predicting the numerical relationship between website ranking of scientific journals on the World Wide Web and the value of impact factor of the journals A sample of 57 publishers with 6 272 scientific journals and 50 standalone scientific journals was analyzed during research procedure In this study two different indicators about websites classification on World Wide Web were examined separately for 57 publishers and 50 standalone journals Alexa rank and Statscrops rank The electronic databases through the internet constitute the main information resources of this study about the impact factors The general conclusion that arises is that the impact factor of electronic scientific journals illustrates a very strong positive correlation with classification of websites on the World Wide Web Furthermore it is concluded that the change of web ranking as a function of impact factor is governed by a Gaussian function or rational function with lower Pearson coefficient and presents non linearly correlation Even if there is very strong correlation between impact factor and web rank for electronic journals the prediction of impact factor from web rank is not possible and presents many divergences Journal of the American Society for Information Science American Society for Information Science, 1997 Educational Rankings Annual 2006 Westney, Lynn C. Hattendorf Westney, 2005-09 Educational Rankings Annual is useful for students parents and school faculty Also administrators of libraries and educational institutions use rankings to defend budgets justify new positions obtain government funding and attract philanthropic support The annually updated resource presents more than 4 000 national regional and international lists and rankings compiled from hundreds of respected sources The entries in Rankings include a description of the ranking background information on criteria for establishing the hierarchy additional remarks about the ranking the complete or partial if extensive ranking and source citations if necessary European Scientific Notes ,1971 Smart Cities. The Current State of Knowledge ,2021-09-13 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject Sociology Habitation and Urban Sociology grade 1 7 University of Münster Marketing Center Münster course KnowIT Economy in times of radical social and technological changes language English abstract As the topic of smart cities gets more current than ever and multiple smart city project examples can be identified this seminar paper discussed the current state of knowledge of smart cities in the literature This paper aims to address political players and anyone who is interested in the topic of smart cities It will be discussed what is known about smart cities what topics are looked at mostly and what areas have not been analyzed deeply yet so that eventually all relevant topics to look at when trying to build a smart city are written out First current smart city projects are mentioned and a typical morning routine in a future smart city is shown In the chapter of the literature search process it will be explained that the literature search was conducted with the keywords smart city cities on EBSCO ULB and Google scholar and then checked for quality standards The literature review starts with analyzing the actors involved in the process of creating smart cities showing that so far mostly big companies push the idea of smart cities into politics and implement smart city projects together It is assessed that integrating citizens and universities in this process to form a so called quadruple helix would be smarter though This is followed by conducting a deeper research in the seven dimensions Smart Economy Smart Mobility Smart Governance Smart Living Smart People Smart Environment and Surveillance Privacy It could be analyzed that our future way of living together will consist of a lot of technology including sensors and Artificial Intelligence With that smart cities will experience a new form of governance travelling and housing Environmental aspects become more important than ever being part of all dimensions really On the other hand it becomes clear that the term smart city is still vague and means something different to every author Besides psychological and privacy issues are still research gaps that need to be further analyzed Also it could be shown that mostly Western researchers deal with the subject of smart cities

Educational Rankings Annual 2005 Gale Group,2004-09 This up to date resource presents more than 4 000 national regional local and international lists and rankings compiled from hundreds of respected sources Entries typically include a description of the ranking background information on criteria for establishing the hierarchy additional remarks about the ranking the complete or partial if extensive ranking and a complete source citation for locating additional information if necessary
