3.2.2 CHANGING PLACES

3.2.2.1 The nature and importance of places

- Defining place
- The geographical concept of place has 3 different aspects:
  - o Location: where a place is on the map, its latitude and longitude
  - o Locale: a setting in which everyday activities (work, leisure and family life) take place. It may not be a physical place (eg internet chatroom). We behave in a specific locale in accordance to the social rules we understand.
  - o Sense of place (place meaning): the personal and emotional attachment to a place, its meaning
- The importance of place in human life and experience:
  - o The depth of feeling we have for a place is influenced by the depth of our knowledge and understanding of it- thus attachment increases with age as:
    - We learn more about it
    - Our ability to explore our environment improves
  - o Sense of place can be strong so that it shapes our identity
- Different perspectives of a place. Insider vs outsider perspectives
