Leadership Behaviour And Organizational Commitment:

Leadership Behavior and Organizational Commitment Ijaz Ahmad Tatlah, Zulfiqar Ali, Muhammad Saeed, 2012 One of the important factors influencing perceptions of the existence of organizational commitment is leadership behaviors. It is argued that leadership behaviors are developed to humanize and renormalize the workplace. In various studies, leadership behaviors were evaluated as antecedents of organizational commitment. In this sense, the purpose of this study is to investigate the relationship between leadership behaviors and organizational commitment (OC). This study is based on the behavioral approach of the leadership. Data were obtained from 150 individuals. Results indicated that overall leadership behavior and organizational commitment of educational professionals have a strong positive correlation. A significant effect of leadership behavior on organizational commitment was also found through regression analysis. Moreover, it was found that initiation structure pattern of leadership behavior is negatively related with Affiliation commitment while positively with exchange commitment; however, this has no relationship with Identification commitment. While consideration pattern of the leadership behavior is strongly correlated with Identification commitment, a dimension of OC, further it was concluded that this has not any relationship with affiliation and exchange commitment dimensions of OC.

Leadership and Organizational Outcomes Engin Karadağ, 2015-03-12 This book focuses on the effect of leadership on organizational outcomes and summarizes the current research findings in the field. It addresses the need for inclusive and interpretive studies in the field in order to interpret leadership literature and suggest new pathways for further studies. Appropriately, a meta-analysis approach is used by the contributors to show the big picture to the researchers by analyzing and combining the findings from different independent studies. In particular, the editors compile various studies examining the relationship between the leadership and thirteen organizational outcomes separately. The philosophy behind this book is to direct future research and practices rather than addressing the limits of current studies.

The Transformational Type of Leadership and Commitment of Employees Justus Alfred Lebura, 2024-06-18 Seminar paper from the year 2024 in the subject Leadership and Human Resources Management. Style language English abstract. This paper addresses the relationship between transformational leadership and commitment of employees. The paper focuses on ascertaining the extent to which dimensions such as individualized consideration, intellectual stimulation, inspirational motivation, and idealized influence impact on employee outcomes such as affective, normative, and continuance commitment. The paper revealed that the dimensions of transformational leadership—individualized consideration, intellectual stimulation, inspirational motivation, and idealized influence—have significantly contributed toward outcomes of commitment of employees such as affective, normative, and continuance commitment. Following the outcome of the discussion of the paper, it was concluded that transformational leadership enables work features that effectively motivate and drive the commitment levels of workers. It is recommended that related actions and efforts of the management are channelled toward building and reinforcing transformational leadership practices within the workplace bridging and enriching the relationship between employers and their subordinates
