The Security of Self Emily B. Laidlaw, Florian Martin-Bariteau, 2025-11-25 Cybersecurity is a powerful concept often examined through the lens of national security and organizational risks. It however demands a deeper understanding to empower our societies and ourselves to thrive in the digital context. This edited collection explores a new approach to human centric cybersecurity: the security of self. It invites a paradigm shift where cybersecurity's core purpose is to protect people and society from harm and where empowering individual and collective rights defines what it means to provide a secure cyber environment. With a distinct Canadian focus and case studies spanning the Internet of Things, artificial intelligence, virtual reality, and social media, this collection charts a path forward for cybersecurity grounded in law, policy, and practices that advance the security of self. This collection serves as a valuable resource for researchers, policymakers, regulators, and individuals seeking to understand and shape the future of human centric cybersecurity.

Algorithmic Marketing and EU Law on Unfair Commercial Practices Federico Galli, 2022-08-30 Artificial Intelligence (AI) systems are increasingly being deployed by marketing entities in connection with consumers' interactions. Thanks to machine learning (ML) and cognitive computing technologies, businesses can now analyse vast amounts of data on consumers, generate new knowledge, use it to optimize certain processes, and undertake tasks that were previously impossible. Against this background, this book analyses new algorithmic commercial practices, discusses their challenges for consumers, and measures such developments against the current EU legislative framework on consumer protection. The book adopts an interdisciplinary approach, building on empirical findings from AI applications in marketing and theoretical insights from marketing studies, and combining them with normative analysis of privacy and consumer protection in the EU. The content is divided into three parts. The first part analyses the phenomenon of algorithmic marketing practices and reviews the main AI and AI-related technologies used in marketing, e.g. Big data, ML, and NLP. The second part describes new commercial practices, including the massive monitoring and profiling of consumers, the personalization of advertising, and offers the exploitation of psychological and emotional insights, and the use of human-like interfaces to trigger emotional responses. The third part provides a comprehensive analysis of current EU consumer protection laws and policies in the field of commercial practices. It focuses on two main legal concepts: their shortcomings and potential refinements. Vulnerability is understood as the conceptual benchmark for protecting consumers from unfair algorithmic practices. Manipulation is the substantive legal measure for drawing the line between fair and unfair practices.

Smart Home Systems Mahmoud Al-Qutayri, 2010-02-01 Smart homes are intelligent environments that interact dynamically and respond readily in an adaptive manner to the needs of the occupants and changes in the ambient conditions. The realization of systems that support the smart homes concept requires integration of technologies from different fields. Among the challenges that the designers face is to make all the components of the system interact in a seamless, reliable, and secure manner. Another major challenge is to design the smart home in a way that takes into account the way humans live and interact This later aspect requires input from the humanities and social sciences fields The need for input from diverse fields of knowledge reflects the multidisciplinary nature of the research and development effort required to realize smart homes that are acceptable to the general public The applications that can be supported by a smart home are very wide and their degree of sophistication depends on the underlying technology used Some of the application areas include monitoring and control of appliances security telemedicine entertainment location based services care for children and the elderly etc This book consists of eleven chapters that cover various aspects of smart home systems
