Journal Joseph D. Harris,Jay Rosen,Gary Calpas,1999 In this book we ask students to do three things 1 To keep a media journal in which they reflect on the uses they make of the voices and images of popular culture 2 to read and respond to the work of other media critics to test their own views and experiences against those of the writers included in these pages and 3 to try their hands at writing media criticism themselves All three kinds of work ask students to find and write about texts from the media culture around them to think critically about what they see and hear on their television sets and radios in magazines and newspapers on city streets and shopping malls at the movies and at concerts and clubs To put it another way we believe that a book such as this can provide only some of the materials for a course on writing about popular culture that the remaining materials must always come from the media themselves and the experiences students have with them Our aim is not to inculcate students with a certain set of critical methods or terms or to introduce them to the academic study of popular culture but to offer them opportunities to rethink and write about their own experiences with the media to come to their own understandings of our common culture Bacon's Media Calendar Directory ,1996
