Applying Successfully to Top US Universities Jason Morris, 2012-05-01 Peterson's Applying Successfully to Top U S Universities is a unique guide that assists highly ambitious Chinese students to get accepted to one of the top ranked higher education institutions in the United States to both undergraduate and graduate programs of study. The book starts out with a general overview of what to expect from receiving a higher education in the United States from earning a degree to financial aid from campus life to the academic calendar. You will find an entire chapter dedicated to the rankings of schools and universities who creates the rankings, how to read them and what to do with the information provided by them. This book also offers extensive information about the language proficiency and admittance tests you may have to take and advice on how to handle the financial aspect of a U S education with a list of scholarships and financial aid available. You will find valuable strategies for building a strong and successful application with special emphasis on creating an outstanding essay or statement of purpose and securing strong letters of recommendation. The book concludes with extensive advice from admission officers and successful international students. English in Post-Revolutionary Iran Maryam Borjian, 2013 This book unravels the story of English, the language of the enemies, in post-revolutionary Iran. Situating English within the nation's broader social, political, economic and historical contexts, the book explores the politics, causes and agents of the two diverging trends of indigenization, localization and internationalization. Anglo-Americanization in English education in Iran over the past three decades. Teacher Involvement in High-Stakes Language Testing Daniel Xerri, Patricia Vella Briffa, 2018-04-27 This book advocates that teachers should play an active role in high-stakes language testing and that more weight should be given to teacher judgement. This is likely to increase the formative potential of high-stakes tests and provide teachers with a sense of ownership. The implication is that the knowledge and skills they develop by being involved in these tests will feed into their own classroom practices. The book also considers the arguments against teacher involvement, e.g. the contention that teacher involvement might entrench the practice of teaching to the test or that teachers should not be actively involved in high stakes language testing because their judgement is insufficiently reliable Using contributions from a wide range of international educational contexts the book proposes that a lack of reliability in teacher judgement is best addressed by means of training and not by barring educators from participating in high stakes language testing It also argues that their involvement in testing helps teachers to bolster confidence in their own judgement and develop their assessment literacy Moreover teacher involvement empowers them to play a role in reforming high stakes language testing so that it is more equitable and more likely to enhance classroom practices High stakes language tests that adopt such an inclusive approach facilitate more effective learning on the part of teachers which ultimately benefits all their students

Jakeman, 2007 The 08/09 Guide to Education in Ireland, □□□□□□□□□□, 2002 The Role of Working Memory and Executive Function in Communication under Adverse Conditions Mary Rudner, Carine Signoret, 2016-06-20

Communication is vital for social participation However communication often takes place under suboptimal conditions This makes communication harder and less reliable leading at worst to social isolation In order to promote participation it is necessary to understand the mechanisms underlying communication in different situations Human communication is often speech based either oral or written but may also involve gesture either accompanying speech or in the form of sign language For communication to be achieved a signal generated by one person has to be perceived by another person attended to comprehended and responded to This process may be hindered by adverse conditions including factors that may be internal to the sender e.g incomplete or idiosyncratic language production occur during transmission e.g background noise or signal processing or be internal to the receiver e.g poor grasp of the language or sensory impairment The extent to which these factors interact to generate adverse conditions may differ across the lifespan Recent work has shown that successful speech communication under adverse conditions is associated with good cognitive capacity including efficient working memory and executive abilities such as updating and inhibition Further frontoparietal networks associated with working memory and executive function have been shown to be activated to a greater degree when it is harder to achieve speech comprehension To date less work has focused on sign language communication under adverse conditions or the role of gestures accompanying speech communication under adverse conditions It has been proposed that the role of working memory in communication under such conditions is to keep fragments of an incomplete signal in mind updating them as appropriate and inhibiting irrelevant information until an adequate match can be achieved with lexical and semantic representations held in long term memory Recent models of working memory highlight an episodic buffer whose role is the multimodal integration of information from the senses and long term memory It is likely that the episodic buffer plays a key role in communication under adverse conditions The aim of this research topic is to draw together multiple perspectives on communication under adverse conditions including empirical and theoretical approaches This will facilitate a scientific exchange among individual scientists and groups studying different aspects of communication under adverse conditions and or the role of cognition in communication As such this topic belongs firmly within the field of Cognitive Hearing Science Exchange of ideas among scientists with different perspectives on these issues will allow researchers to identify and highlight the way in which different internal and external factors interact to make communication in different modalities more or less successful across the lifespan Such exchange is the forerunner of broader dissemination of results which ultimately may make it possible to take measures to reduce adverse conditions thus facilitating communication Such measures might be implemented in relation to the built environment the design of hearing aids and public awareness
