

The Power Cube Explained

Cecilia Luttrell, Kate Bird, Sarah Byrne, Jane Carter and Devanshu Chakravarti

November 2007

This note discusses the use of the Power Cube as a means of expanding further on the ideas of power raised in the paper on 'Understanding and Operationalising Empowerment' (Luttrell and Quiroz, 2007). Gaventa's (2003; 2005) Power Cube (see Figure 1) presents a dynamic understanding of how power operates, how different interests can be marginalised from decision making, and the strategies needed to increase inclusion. It describes how power is used by the powerful across three continuums of:

1. Spaces: how arenas of power are created;
2. Power: the degree of visibility of power;
3. Places: the levels and places of engagement.

(Source: Gaventa, 2003)

1. By the term 'space', Gaventa refers to the different arenas in which decision making takes place, in which power operates and how these spaces are created (See Table 1). He distinguishes between three types:

- a) 'Provided' or 'closed' spaces: spaces which are controlled by an elite group.
- b) 'Invited' spaces: with external pressure, or in an attempt to increase legitimacy, some policymakers may create 'invited' spaces for outsiders to share their opinions.

- c) 'Claimed' spaces: these can provide the less powerful with a chance to develop their agendas and create solidarity without control from power-holders.

'Spaces' are fora for discussion or areas where interactions take place. They can be virtual (e.g. a web-based discussion) or an actual physical place (e.g. a parliamentary consultation meeting). The Power Cube helps us to understand these different forms of space and therefore how to use provided spaces better, how to create more invited space and how to facilitate the claiming of space through negotiation.

2. The Power Cube also distinguishes the degree of visibility of power (see Table 2):

- a) Visible power: this is the conventional understanding of power that is negotiated through formal rules and structures, institutions and procedures
- b) Hidden power: this focuses on the actual controls over decision making, and the way certain powerful people and institutions maintain their influence over the process and often exclude and devalue concerns and agendas of less powerful groups.
- c) Invisible (internalised) power: this operates by influencing how individuals think of their place in society and explains why some are prevented from questioning existing power relations.

The Power Cube helps to make the distinction between different dimensions of power and therefore move beyond certain assumptions, such as 'the enforcers of rules are oppressors'. This may enable us to explore the way in which laws and institutions may be perpetuating repressive social norms and values.

3. The Power Cube emphasises the importance of understanding interaction between levels of power and the 'places of engagement' (see Table 3) and particularly distinguishes between the international,

Advocacy Coalitions and Policy Change in Africa Alex Osei-Kojo, Christopher M. Weible, 2026-01-02 The Advocacy Coalition Framework ACF a theoretical framework originally formulated to study US public policy has been widely applied to western countries and has advanced policy process scholarship over the past three decades However there are far fewer systematic efforts to apply the Framework s theories in Africa compared to western contexts This result lessens the contribution of African insights into policy process scholarship and hampers the production of generalizable knowledge To address this empirical gap Advocacy Coalitions and Policy Change in Africa poses and answers two interrelated research questions what are the characteristics of advocacy coalitions and if appropriate what are the explanations of policy change These questions are explored across eight empirical data driven case studies in different policy domains across the continent s five regions North Africa West Africa East Africa Central Africa and Southern Africa and focus on diverse policy areas including food and nutrition oil and gas and climate change Using original data collected from various sources and analyzed with a variety of techniques this book evaluates the ACF s theoretical predictions about coalition formation and policy change It also explores the challenges of applying the ACF in Africa such as incorporating the role of ethnic cultural and tribal identities in coalition formation taking a broad perspective on political organizations and improving theories of nascent subsystems In doing so Advocacy Coalitions and Policy Change in Africa elucidates the key characteristics of advocacy coalitions and plausible explanations of policy change Oxford Studies in African Politics and International Relations is a series for scholars and students working on African politics and International Relations and related disciplines Volumes concentrate on contemporary developments in African political science political economy and International Relations such as electoral politics democratization decentralization gender and political representation the political impact of natural resources the dynamics and consequences of conflict comparative political thought and the nature of the continent's engagement with the East and West Comparative and mixed methods work is particularly encouraged Case studies are welcomed but should demonstrate the broader theoretical and empirical implications of the study and its wider relevance to contemporary debates The focus of the series is on sub-Saharan Africa although proposals that explain how the region engages with North Africa and other parts of the world are of interest Series Editors Nic Cheeseman University of Birmingham Peace Medie University of Bristol and Ricardo Soares de Oliveira Sciences Po Paris

Reimagining Civil Society Collaborations in Development Margit van Wessel, Tiina Kontinen, Justice Nyigmah Bawole, 2023-01-03 At a time when uneven power dynamics are high on development actors agenda this book will be an important contribution to researchers and practitioners working on innovation in development and civil society While there is much discussion of localization decolonization and shifting power in civil society collaborations in development the debate thus far centers on the aid system This book directs attention to CSOs as drivers of development in various contexts that we refer to as the Global South This book takes a transformative stance reimagining roles relations and processes It does so from five complementary angles 1 Southern CSOs reclaiming the lead 2 displacement of the North-South dyad 3 Southern-centred questions 4 new roles for Northern actors and 5 new starting points for collaboration The book relativizes international collaboration asking INGOs Northern CSOs and their donors to follow Southern CSOs leads recognizing their contextually geared perspectives agendas resources capacities and ways of working Based in 19 empirically grounded chapters the book also offers an agenda for further research design and experimentation Emphasizing the need to Start from the South this book thus reimagines and re-centers Civil Society collaborations in development offering Southern-centred ways of understanding and developing relations roles and processes in theory and practice The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non-Commercial No Derivatives CC BY-NC-ND 4.0 license Funded by Wageningen University

Power, Empowerment and Social Change Rosemary McGee, Jethro Pettit, 2019-10-21 This book uncovers how power operates around the world and how it can be resisted or transformed through empowered collective action and social leadership The stakes have never been higher Recent years have seen a rapid escalation of inequalities the rise of new global powers and corporate interests increasing impunity of human rights violations suppression of civil society and a re-shaping of democratic processes by post-truth populist and nationalist politics Rather than looking at power through the lenses of agency or structure alone this book views power and empowerment as complex and multidimensional societal processes defined by pervasive social norms conditions constraints and opportunities Bridging theory and practice the book explores real-world applications using a selection of frameworks tools case studies examples resources and reflections from experience to support actors to analyse their positioning and align themselves with progressive social forces Compiled with social change practitioners students and scholars in mind Power Empowerment and Social Change is the perfect volume for anyone involved in politics international development sociology human rights and environmental justice who is looking for fresh insights for transforming power in favour of relatively less powerful people The 3 Keys to Empowerment ,2017 Health & Social Care: Power and Empowerment Pocket Guide Siobhan Maclean,2012 Power and Empowerment Neil Thompson,2007 Empowerment has become a well used term across a wide variety of social work settings that involve dealing with people and their problems But is it a central part of good practice or an empty word And what of power It is a central theme of human services practice but like empowerment is often only loosely examined This book examines both the theory and practice of power and empowerment The Power of Empowerment Jodi L. Anderson,2009
