Dhet Past Paper Memo:

Living Standards in the Past Robert C. Allen, Tommy Bengtsson, Martin Dribe, 2005-03-24 Why did Europe experience industrialisation and modern economic growth before China India or Japan This is one of the most fundamental questions in Economic History and one that has provoked intense debate The main concern of this book is to determine when the gap in living standards between the East and the West emerged The established view dating back to Adam Smith is that the gap emerged long before the Industrial Revolution perhaps thousands of years ago While this view has been called into question and many of the explanations for it greatly undermined the issue demands much more empirical research than has yet been undertaken How did the standard of living in Europe and Asia compare in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries The present book proposes an answer by considering evidence of three sorts The first is economic focusing on income food production wages and prices The second is demographic comparing heights life expectancy and other demographic indicators The third combines the economic and demographic by investigating the demographic vulnerability to short term economic stress The contributions show the highly complex and diverse pattern of the standard of living in the pre industrial period The general picture emerging is not one of a great divergence between East and West but instead one of considerable similarities These similarities not only pertain to economic aspects of standard of living but also to demography and the sensitivity to economic fluctuations In addition to these similarities there were also pronounced regional differences within the East and within the West regional differences that in many cases were larger than the average differences between Europe and Asia This clearly highlights the importance of analysing several dimensions of the standard of living as well as the danger of neglecting regional social and household specific differences when assessing the level of well being in the past

Feeling lives: An intersectional exploration of past experiences and present living Lindsay Clowes, LJ Theo, Nadia Sanger, Landa Mabenge, Sisa Ngabaza, 2023-11-15 We each make sense of the world through our embodied feeling lives We do it through the social groupings contexts and processes which history rather than biology presents and assigns to us In this collection we aim to illustrate how these embodied feelings and emotions underpin contemporary theorising by sharing reflective autobiographical writing by individuals from a wide range of backgrounds and contexts This somewhat unruly collection unsettles conventional academic writing precisely because authors have grounded themselves in the tangible and the personal rather than in abstract theory We hope that readers might see aspects of their own lives in some of these stories develop better understandings of lives that are experienced very differently and start or continue to theorise their own lives

The other members of the Classics Club are equally as fascinating. Bunny Corcoran is a wealthy and spoiled young man who is always looking for a good time. Charles Tavis is a quiet and reserved young man who is deeply in love with Henry. Camilla Macaulay is a beautiful and intelligent young woman who is drawn to the power and danger of the Classics Club. The students are all deeply in love with Morrow, and they are willing to do anything to please him. Morrow is a complex and mysterious figure, and he seems to be manipulating the students for his own purposes. As the students become more involved with Morrow, they begin to commit increasingly dangerous acts. The Secret History is a masterful and thrilling novel that will keep you guessing until the very end. The novel is a warning tale about the dangers of obsession and the power of evil.
