On Being Normal and Other Disorders Paul Verhaeghe,2020-06-16 The central argument of On Being Normal and Other Disorders is that psychic identity is acquired through one s primary intersubjective relationships Thus the diagnosis of potential pathologies must also be founded on this relation Given that the efficacy of all forms of treatment depends upon the therapeutic relation a diagnostic of this sort has wide ranging applications The author s critical evaluation of the contemporary DSM diagnostic shows that the lack of reference to and governing metapsychology impinges on the therapeutic value of the DSM categories In response to this problem the author sketches out the foundations of such a metapsychology by combining a Freud-Lacanian approach with contemporary empirical research Close attention is paid to the processes of identity acquisition to show how the self and the Other are not two separate entities Rather subject formation is seen as a process in which both the subject s and the Other s identity as well as the relationship between them comes into being Art Cure Daisy Fancourt,2026-02-03 A groundbreaking expos showing how the arts alongside diet sleep exercise and nature are the forgotten fifth pillar of health From cradle to grave engaging in the arts has remarkable effects on our health and well being Music supports the architectural development of children s brains Artistic hobbies help our brains to stay resilient against dementia Dance and magic tricks build new neural pathways for people with brain injuries Arts and music act just like drugs to decrease depression stress and pain reducing our dependence on medication Going to live music events museums exhibitions and the theater decreases our risk of future loneliness and frailty Engaging in the arts improves the functioning of every major organ system in the body even helping us to live longer This isn t sensationalism it s science the results of decades of studies gathering data from neuroimaging molecular biomarkers wearable sensors cognitive assessments and electronic health records From professor Daisy Fancourt an award winning scientist and science communicator and director of the World Health Organization s Collaborating Centre for Arts and Health this book will fundamentally change the way you value and engage with the arts in your daily life and give you the tools to optimize how when and what arts you engage in to achieve your health goals The arts are not a luxury in our lives They are essential
