Transnational Data Protection Jan Alexander Linxweiler, 2021-03-03 Master s Thesis from the year 2017 in the subject Law European and International Law Intellectual Properties grade 1 0 Steinbeis University Berlin SIBE language English abstract The Thesis focuses on the legal perspective of Transnational Data Protection Here the scope of the thesis is limited to the provisions and interdependencies of the European Union EU Matters of national legislation of EU Member States are implicitly mentioned or characterized but not within the scope of the thesis Within the current business as well as administrative environment the topic of data protection is a crucial factor for business public reception and security The Snowden incident the Safe Harbor Ruling of the European Court of Justice and ultimately the introduction of the new European General Data Protection Regulation in May 2018 poses potential threat scenarios for businesses and require responsive actions on the respective management level While the importance of data protections is now an omnipresent and a commonly known issue it is still a rather neglected topic It often bears the stigma of nuisance and implies costly implementation of measures and processes Nonetheless corporations companies businesses and governmental agencies have to adhere to data protection regulations the demands of the digitalization and social pressure Therefore the abidance by Data

Protection Law has incrementally gained a more essential role within company's and administration's structures during the last years. This is especially true for transnational contexts. Here, Data Protection Management encompasses privacy compliance and organizational privacy management as part of the information security risk management. Essentially, the objective and responsibility of Data Protection Management in the context of transnational data flows in the EU are based in its legal framework. Within the current business environment, the topic of data protection is a crucial factor for business public reception and security. Businesses and governmental agencies have to adhere to data protection regulations. Therefore, the abidance by Data Protection Law has gained a more essential role within company's and administration's structures. This is especially true for transnational contexts. Data Protection encompasses privacy compliance and management as part of the information security risk management.

Data Protection Around the World Elif Kiesow Cortez, 2020-11-20. This book provides a snapshot of privacy laws and practices from a varied set of jurisdictions in order to offer guidance on national and international contemporary issues regarding the processing of personal data and serves as an up-to-date resource on the applications and practice relevant examples of data protection laws in different countries. Privacy violations emerging at an ever-increasing rate due to evolving technology and new lifestyles linked to an intensified online presence of ever more individuals required the design of a novel data protection and privacy regulation. The EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) stands as an example of a regulatory response to these demands. The authors included in this book offer an in-depth analysis of the national data protection legislation of various countries across different continents, not only including country-specific details but also comparing the idiosyncratic characteristics of these national privacy laws to the GDPR. Valuable comparative information on data protection regulations around the world is thus provided in one concise volume. Due to the variety of jurisdictions covered and the practical examples focused on both academics and legal practitioners, will find this book especially useful. While for compliance practitioners, it can serve as a guide regarding transnational data transfers, Elif Kiesow Cortez is Senior Lecturer at the International and European Law Program at The Hague University of Applied Sciences in The Netherlands.

What Marketers Must Know about GDPR Michael Carney, 2018-03-19. If you market to the UK and the European Union or have clients anywhere in Great Britain or Europe, no matter where your own business is based, you absolutely must get yourself up to speed with the new GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) which comes into effect on May 25, 2018. If you don't, you are potentially liable for fines of up to €20 million or 4% of your global turnover. What is GDPR? Let's cut to the chase. What exactly is GDPR and why should marketers care? Steven MacDonald gives us a helpful explanation. The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) is a new digital privacy regulation being introduced on the 25th May 2018. It standardizes a wide range of different privacy legislations across the EU into one central set of regulations that will protect users in all member states. Put simply, this means companies will now be required to build in privacy settings into their digital products and websites and have them switched on by default. Companies also need to regularly conduct privacy impact assessments strengthen the way they seek permission to use the data document the ways they use personal data and improve the way they communicate data breaches And because it s a regulation and not a directive it is legally binding meaning it cannot be opted out of or ignored In fact failing to comply could lead to fines of up to e20 million or 4% of your global turnover What Marketers Must Know About GDPR is an essential guide to the European Union s new General Data Protection Regulation It s been written and compiled by highly experienced marketer MICHAEL CARNEY GDPR: General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679 Mariusz Krzysztofek,2018-11-01 Personal data protection has become one of the central issues in any understanding of the current world system In this connection the European Union EU has created the most sophisticated regime currently in force with the General Data Protection Regulation GDPR of 2016 This book on this major data protection reform offers a comprehensive discussion of all principles of personal data processing obligations of data controllers and rights of data subjects This is the core of the personal data protection regime GDPR is applicable directly in all Member States providing for a unification of data protection rules within the EU However it poses a problem in enabling international trade and data transfers outside the EU between economies which have different data protection models in place Among the broad spectrum of aspects of the subject covered are the following summary of the changes introduced by the GDPR new territorial scope key principles of personal data processing legal bases for the processing of personal data marketing cookies and profiling new information clauses new Subject Access Requests SARs including the right to be forgotten on the Internet the right to data portability and the right to object to profiling new data protection by design and by default benefits from implementing a data protection certificate and data transfers outside the EU including BCRs SCCs and special features of EU US arrangements This book references many rulings of European courts as well as interpretations and guidelines formulated by European data protection authorities examples and best practices making it of great practical value to lawyers and business leaders Because of the increase in legal certainty in this area guaranteed by the GDPR multinational corporations and their customers and contractors will benefit enormously from consulting and using this book For practitioners and academics researching or advising clients on this area and government policy advisors this book provides an indispensable source of guidance and information for many years to come New European General Data Protection Regulation Daniel Rucker,Tobias Kugler,2018 The European Data Protection Basic Regulation brings a uniform data protection law directly applicable in all European Member States which will also have to be complied with by numerous companies outside the EU with business in the EU The existing national data protection laws are thus largely replaced Companies have to adapt their business models and processes to the new requirements within a period of two years This book is the ideal basis for legal advisors and all internationally affected companies to review existing business processes and to shape new processes and business models in accordance with data privacy Bloomsbury Publishing Guide to the GDPR Maciej Gawronski,2019-07-17 To execute and guarantee the right to privacy and data protection within the European Union
