A Wall Of Fire Rising:

Caribbean Women Writers and Globalization Helen Scott, 2006 Helen Scott approaches contemporary Caribbean women's writing in the context of global and local economic forces. Considering each text within its national, historical, and cultural origins while acknowledging regional and international patterns, Scott examines the dynamics of imperialism and illuminates the specific aesthetic qualities that reach beyond the confines of geography and history in the work of such writers as Oonya Kempadoo, Jamaica Kincaid, Edwidge Danticat, Pauline Melville, and Janice Shinebourne. Postcolonial Perspectives on Women Writers from Africa, the Caribbean, and the US Martin Japtok, 2003. Combining postcolonial perspectives with race and culture-based studies which have merged the fields of African and black American studies, this volume concentrates on women writers exploring how the post-colonial condition is reflected in women's literature. The essays are united by their focus on attempts to create alternative value systems through the rewriting of history or the reclassification of the woman's position in society. By examining such strategies, these essays illuminate the diversity and coherence of the postcolonial project.

In Krik Krak, in her second novel, Edwidge Danticat establishes herself as the latest heir to that narrative tradition with nine stories that encompass both the cruelties and the high ideals of Haitian life. They tell of women who continue loving behind prison walls and in the face of unfathomable loss of a people who resist the brutality of their rulers through the powers of imagination.
