Dynamic General Equilibrium Modeling Burkhard Heer, Alfred Maussner, 2009-08-12 Modern business cycle theory and growth theory uses stochastic dynamic general equilibrium models In order to solve these models economists need to use many mathematical tools This book presents various methods in order to compute the dynamics of general equilibrium models In part I the representative agent stochastic growth model is solved with the help of value function iteration linear and linear quadratic approximation methods parameterised expectations and projection methods In order to apply these methods fundamentals from numerical analysis are reviewed in detail In particular the book discusses issues that are often neglected in existing work on computational methods e g how to find a good initial value In part II the authors discuss methods in order to solve heterogeneous agent economies In such economies the distribution of the individual state variables is endogenous This part of the book also serves as an introduction to the modern theory of distribution economics Applications include the dynamics of the income distribution over the business cycle or the overlapping generations model In an accompanying home page to this book computer codes to all applications can be downloaded

Finite Element Bibliography Gerard De Vries,1976-12 Thjs bibliography had its inception in 1967 when the compilers first attempted a comprehensive coverage of the finite element literature using both manual and computer based retrieval Initially the data base was stored on a card index but this was subsequently transferred to punched cards and magnetic tape Computer processing was adopted at an early stage to derive the three index formats from the data base Over the subsequent years several versions of the bibliography were produced with two of these being made available in a report form to other researchers From the widespread interest in these documents it became evident that there was a need for a commercially available comprehensive bibliography in this area A major effort was undertaken to revise update and extend the data base resulting in this present volume The bibliography covers the period 1956 1975 primarily although some earlier publications of historical interest are included The citations are not restricted to the English language and documents are listed in many languages and from diverse places of origin All publication formats were accepted so that references will be found to books monographs journal papers and articles theses dissertations reports surveys and the like
