Integrated Strategies for Lifelong Health: Multidimensional Approaches to Aging and Lifestyle Interventions

Wei Ge, Muralikrishnan Dhanasekaran, Qiukui Hao, 2026-02-04

As the global population ages at an unprecedented rate the management of health among older adults has emerged as a critical issue in public health. According to the World Health Organization the number of people aged 60 and over is projected to reach 1.3 billion by 2030 and is expected to soar to 2 billion by 2050. This demographic shift poses significant challenges not only to healthcare systems but also to socio-economic development. Older adults often face multiple health challenges characterized by a higher prevalence of chronic diseases, reduced quality of life, and diminished capacity for self-care. To address these challenges a comprehensive and multidimensional approach to health management is required, emphasizing prevention over treatment. Lifestyle interventions such as improved nutrition, increased physical activity, and mental health support have demonstrated significant positive impacts on the health of older adults. Research shows that maintaining a healthy lifestyle can not only slow down the aging process but also reduce the risk of chronic diseases and enhance the overall quality of life for seniors. Furthermore, it is crucial to recognize the social determinants of health that affect older adults. Their well-being is influenced not only by individual behaviors but also by social support networks, economic conditions, educational attainment, and environmental factors. Therefore, developing personalized and community-oriented health interventions that take these multifaceted factors into account is essential for effectively improving the overall health of older populations. In summary, the integration of lifestyle interventions with a comprehensive strategy in the context of aging is vital for promoting lifelong health, enhancing the quality of life for older adults, and achieving sustainable public health goals. This research topic aims to compile research findings in this field, exploring how multidimensional strategies can improve the health outcomes of older adults and provide valuable insights and guidance for policymakers and public health practitioners. This research topic of the journal aims to compile high-quality research articles, reviews, and viewpoints that specifically focus on exploring and identifying multifaceted strategies for promoting lifelong health in older adults through lifestyle interventions. By addressing the intricate interactions between individual behaviors and social determinants of health, it seeks to develop a comprehensive framework to enhance the quality of life for seniors, alleviate the burden of age-related chronic diseases, and provide guidance for policy and public health initiatives. Ultimately, this work strives to deliver sustainable health outcomes and well-being for older adults across diverse communities. We invite submissions that encompass but are not limited to the following themes:

- Evaluate Public Health Policies: Investigate how current public health policies address chronic diseases in aging populations and identify gaps in these policies.
- Lifestyle Interventions: Develop and assess the effectiveness of tailored behavioral and lifestyle interventions that individuals can adopt from early life to promote health and well-being throughout their lifespan.
- Multidimensional Focus: Investigate the complex interplay of various factors (physical, cognitive, social, economic, environmental, etc.) that contribute to health outcomes in older adults and explore comprehensive strategies to address these domains collectively Psychosocial Factors and Mental Health Explore the role of psychosocial factors including social support mental well being loneliness and resilience in relation to successful aging and evaluate interventions that promote positive mental health outcomes Preventive Measures Research how proactive interventions across different stages of life can prevent or delay the onset of chronic diseases commonly associated with aging Cross Population Studies Compare the impacts of various lifestyle interventions across different demographics to identify universally effective approaches and those that may need customization Technology and Innovation Incorporate technological advances that support healthy aging and lifestyle management such as competitive markets or real time health tracking Interdisciplinary Approaches Collaborative models involving healthcare social services and community organizations to support healthy aging Cultural Considerations Analyze how cultural factors influence lifestyle choices and health behaviors in diverse aging populations Please read the scope of our section before submitting to this research topic
