acclaimed psychologists whose life's work has focused on death anxiety examine all the major human responses to death across history. From the development of religious systems denying the finality of death to immortality projects involving enduring art, architecture, and literature, some of the consequences of our fear of death have been glorious, while others have been destructive, leading to global conflicts and genocide. Looking forward, Mortals hypothesises that worse could be to come: our unconscious dread of death has led to rampant consumerism and overpopulation, driving the global warming and pandemic crises that now threaten our very existence. In a terrible irony, Homo sapiens may ultimately be destroyed by our knowledge of our own mortality. A fascinating tour of our species' attempts across millennia to come to terms with mortality, Mortals offers a stunning glimpse into what our fear of death means for our future. A must read.
