Rowell's American Newspaper Directory, 1907 Menus for Movieland Richard Abel, 2015-09-01 At the turn of the past century the main function of a newspaper was to offer menus by which readers could make sense of modern life and imagine how to order their daily lives Among those menus in the mid 1910s were several that mediated the interests of movie manufacturers distributors exhibitors and the rapidly expanding audience of fans This writing about the movies arguably played a crucial role in the emergence of American popular film culture negotiating among national regional and local interests to shape fans ephemeral experience of moviegoing their repeated encounters with the fantasy worlds of movieland and their attractions to certain stories and stars Moreover many of these weekend pages daily columns and film reviews were written and consumed by women including one teenage girl who compiled a rare surviving set of scrapbooks Based on extensive original research Menus for Movieland substantially revises what moviegoing meant in the transition to what we now think of as Hollywood Americanizing the Movies and Movie-Mad Audiences, 1910-1914 Richard Abel, 2006-08-28 This engaging deeply researched study provides the richest and most nuanced picture we have to date of cinema both movies and movie going in the early 1910s At the same time it makes clear the profound relationship between early cinema and the construction of a national identity in this important transitional period in the United States Richard Abel looks closely at sensational melodramas including westerns cowboy cowboy girl and Indian pictures Civil War films especially girl spy films detective films and animal pictures all popular genres of the day that have received little critical attention He simultaneously analyzes film distribution and exhibition practices in order to reconstruct a context for understanding moviegoing at a time when American cities were coming to grips with new groups of immigrants and women working outside the home Drawing from a wealth of research in archive prints the trade press fan magazines newspaper advertising reviews and syndicated columns the latter of which highlight the importance of the emerging star system Abel sheds new light on the history of the film industry on working class and immigrant culture at the turn of the century and on the process of imaging a national community The Manual of Dates George Henry Townsend, 1862 Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News I.
