Handbook of Research on Consumerism and Buying Behavior in Developing Nations Gbadamosi, Ayantunji, 2016-05-31 Having a grasp on what appeals to consumers and how consumers are making purchasing decisions is essential to the success of any organization that thrives by offering a product or service. Despite the importance of consumer knowledge and understanding, research based insight into the buying patterns and consumption habits of individuals in emerging nations remains limited. The Handbook of Research on Consumerism and Buying Behavior in Developing Nations takes a critical look at the often overlooked opportunities available for driving consumer demand and interest in developing countries. Emphasizing the power of the consumer market in emerging economies and their overall role in the global market system, this edited volume features research based perspectives on consumer perception, behavior and relationship management across industries. This timely publication is an essential resource for marketing professionals, consumer researchers, international business strategists, scholars and graduate level students.

Consumer Behavior - Consumer as Decision Maker with cultural background Isabelle Pfeiffer, 2002-03-05 Seminar paper from the year 2000 in the subject Business economics. Offline Marketing and Online Marketing grade 1.7. A.N. Rtingen University, University of Applied Sciences course Hauptseminar Transnational Business language English abstract Introduction 1.1 In general to the Hauptseminar paper consumer behavior consumer as decision maker with cultural background. The target of this Hauptseminar paper is to show the decision-making process of consumers with different cultural backgrounds and also the influences on the choice of the product or service. Consumers have to make decisions all the time. Sometimes decisions are made on habits and sometimes consumers first have to collect information before deciding because the purchase is a deal with risk. One of the main objectives of this paper is to understand how consumers process information into decisions and the strategic implication of this process and to gain an insight into the continuum of factors that affect consumer decisions. In the case of French Euro Disneyland, the trials and tribulations of Euro Disneyland I have chosen the difference between Americans and Europeans in the decision-making process is described. Textual this Hauptseminar paper is structured as follows: After advancing to the topic, the terms consumer behavior, decision maker, and culture are defined within the introduction. The main part is divided into three blocks: the dimensions of consumer behavior and the influences on consumer behavior. In the first main part, the case of Euro Disney is described and analyzed. The difference between Europeans and Americans in spending money in theme parks, the difference in their tastes, and the different vacation situation is shown in this case. In the second main part, the dimensions of consumer behavior are explained and discussed on the basis of the case. The three dimensions who buys how consumers buy the decision-making process and the choice criteria are discussed in more detail. The decision-making process is subdivided into five steps: the problem recognition, the information search, the evaluation of alternatives, the product choice, and the outcomes like customer satisfaction. The influences on consumer behavior are forming the third main part of this Hauptseminar paper, which is subdivided into the buying situation, personal influences such like lifestyle stage in the life cycle or beliefs and attitudes, and the social influences such like family culture and geodemographics. The summary forms the closing of the text of this Hauptseminar paper, followed by the appendices and the bibliography.
